VOL. XXIII BELLEFONTE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING. DECEMBER 8, 1892. NO. 48

A CLEVELAND organ in New York city prints a statement that "the time will come when the G. A. R. will stand for Grand-Army of Robbers."

THE democrats were as tickled over their recent victory as a boy would be over the present of an elephant, but now that they are beginning to realize its responsibility, like the boy, they don't know what to do with it.

THE official count in Kansas shows the election of nine Weaver electors and one Harrison elector. The People's party State ticket was elected by majorities ranging from 3800 to 8600. Five Populist congressmen were elected; Jerry Simpson's majority is 1668.

EX-UNION SOLDIERS in Kansas have organized an association to be known as the Boys in Blue, a rival to the Grand Army of the Republic. The old soldiers in the People's party are the originators of the plan, which implies that it may be a political organization.

A LONG suffering editor wrote the following: "Qnite a number of our subscribers seem to entertain the idea that we are publishing the paper solely for the benefit of our health. That is a part of the object we admit, but just now our financial condition needs repairs, and those indebted will please prescribe the necessary remedy."

THE McKinley bill seems to be daily growing less "iniquitous" in the sight of the democracy since there is no further occasion to abuse it for political effect. They are beginning to show it much respect and some are already declaring against its repeal, forty democratic representatives to the next congress having just taken this position.

THE Altoona Tribune truly says: No citizen who fails to do his duty toward violators of law has any right to censure an officer for neglect of duty. Officers have certain duties, but so have citizens. The man who winks at outrageous violations of law and submits to infinite annoyance because he is afraid of making enemies who may do him harm, isn't much of a hero.

THERE are now 876,068 persons on the pension list. This is about the highest number that will be reached as the ranks of the boys in blue are rapidly being thinned. Over 25,000 were dropped from the roll last year, and each succeeding year the number will be greater. Don't growl because the men who bared their breasts to the bullets of the enemy receive their pittance of pension.

THE highest statistical authority in the United States, David A. Wells declares that the yearly waste in the United States, through drink, is at least $600,000,000. In 40 years $10,000,000,000 have been thus wasted. This is equal to the whole savings of the people from 1783 to 1891. Such figures should cause the American people to stop and think of some effective remedy to stop this worse than waste.

THE USE AND ABUSE OF WHISKEY.

This subject could be dwelt upon to a considerable length, and yet much would remain untold, but all agree that the use, the proper use of pure rye whiskey is an absolute necessity, especially so now, when nature insists upon being stimulated. All regular physicians prescribe rye whiskey, and justly claim that Klein's Silver Age and Duquesne Whiskies are most reliable. They do this not only because they have tried them but because the leading hospitals use them—find them the best stimulants in the world. Silver Age sells for $1.50 and Duquesne for $1.25 per full quart. For sale by all dealers and druggists. Ask for them or send to S. Shloss, Williamsport. Pa.

—A girl in Wilkes-Barre who had been betrayed and was being importuned by the officers of the law to tell who had seduced her replied, "I love him still and God will be his judge," and so she died carrying the secret with her. To his dying day will the dying words of this poor girl ring in his ears. As sure as there is a God in heaven his punishment will be more fearful than any court could inflict.

—Last Monday about four o'clock a. m. fire was discovered in the furnace office at Valentine & Co's works. The alarm was given for help to put it out which was speedily done. Some papers were destroyed but the books and valuable papers were saved by Supt. Donohue and furnaceman Kelly. The origin of the fire is not known.

THE LOWER HOUSE OF CONGRESS.

The total membership of the house will consist of 217 democrats, 128 republicans, eight populists. Two districts in Rhode-Island where elections are yet to be held and the Fifth district of Michigan are in doubt.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, Dec. 5, 1892.

The President's annual message to Congress, although, owing to the sad and sorrowful conditions under which it was written, lacked the polish of some of the Presidents other State papers, rings with patriotism and true republican sound from its beginning to its end, nailing, as it figuratively does, the banner inscribed with "Protection to Americans, at Home and Abroad; Reciprocity, and Honest Money," to the mast head of the good old republican ship, which still proudly floats, notwithstanding the severity of the storm through which she passed last month. The record of this administration, a synopsis of which is given in the message, has never been surpassed in times of peace, and is not likely to be soon. Every republican who reads this message, and everyone should, will feel proud that he voted for Benjamin Harrison, who tells him, between the lines, that "it is better to be right than to be President," and in the same way repeats the command of the famous sailor—"Don't give up the ship." The message will not go to Congress until to morrow, but I was favored with an advance copy.

The opening of Congress occurred without any specially notable incident. The Senate took up, under a resolution adopted at the last session, the anti-option bill as the "unfinished business." This bill has brought a strong lobby to Washington, which is plentifully supplied with cash by the speculators whose business as dealers in options on grain, cotton, etc., will be ended if the bill becomes a law, and this lobby has been indulging in a game of brag about how easy this bill will be defeated. Senator Washburn, who is in charge of the bill, is confident that it will be passed and become a law. He says nothing but sharp parliamentary practice on the part of those opposed to the bill can prevent its being passed.

There are no present indications that the democrats of the House are going to do any better, either in point of attendance or in legislation, than they did at the last session. Last week Mr. Holman, chairman of the committee on Appropriation, stated that at least one of the regular appropriation bills would be ready to be reported to the House to-day; but none of them were ready, and according to the stories around the Capitol there is a regular cat and dog fight among the democrats on the several committees having charge of Appropriations as to where the cutting that Mr. Holman insists shall be done is to begin. Each fellow wants the cutting to be done in all the bills except the particular one in which he is interested. It looks now as if the heaviest cutting, proportionately, is to be done in the District of Columbia bill, one of the smallest of the regular appropriation bills, and also the one having the smallest political "pull."

It is difficult to get a democratic member of the House to commit himself either for or against anything. Take the matter of immigration for instance, with which politics shoud have nothing whatever to do. The Senate committee on Immigration will in a report on its investigation of the subject recommend that a bill be passed suspending all immigration for one year, and Surgeon Gen. Wyman, of the Marine Hospital Service, who is in charge of the National quarantine against the cholera, will in his annual report say that such suspension is an absolutely necessary precaution to keep the cholera out of this country next year. Still democratic members of the House are non-commital. One member jokingly said, when I spoke to him about it: "Oh you cannot expect me to express myself until I know what Mr. Cleveland thinks about it; I am not going to spoil my chance for patronage by opposing his wishes."

In that joke lies the real cause of democratic reticence. Even sensible democrats like Representative Breckinridge, of Kentucky, seem to have the idea that Mr. Cleveland has been elected to be the autocratic ruler of all branches of the government from this time on. This is what Breckinridge said on the subject: "The people of this country have not only declared that they want it done by Mr. Cleveland (this is rough on the democratic Congress). I think therefore that Mr. Cleveland should be premier as well as President, and that he should prepare a tariff bill to be sent to congress in lieu of a mere message of recommendation, was worse rot ever spoken outside the walls of an insane asylum? Why not abolish Congress and make Mr. Cleveland Czar, at once? What can be expected of the ordinary democrat when men like Breckinridge, who is a lawyer and presumbably familiar with the Constitution of the United States, deliberately proposes to over-ride the clause in that Constitution which distinctly says that all revenue measures shall originate with the House of Representatives?

A NINETEENTH CENTURY CAREER

The death of Mr. Jay Gould last Friday morning at 9-15 o'clock terminates a career which is especially typical of the close of the century in American finance. Mr. Gould has been at once the pioneer and the prototype of many of the now characteristic methods by which coporate management is perverted to the aggrandizement of individual fortunes. He first showed how such things could be done on the grand scale, and carried the practices to a point which few men have equaled, and none surpassed. In that light the financial career just closed possesses an especial interest to the student of social changes as influenced by pecuniary conditions.

The old and familiar classic proverb concerning the propriety of speaking well of the dead can generally, but not always, be observed. Where the prominence of characteristic that cannot be approved forbid obedience to the aphorism, it is well to speak what good can be spoken. With regard to Mr. Gould it is satisfactory to say that he was personally unassuming and democratic. At a time when it was the tendency in millionaire society to put on airs of aristocracy and transplant the customs, if not the scions, of European nobility to this soil, Mr. Gould retained his personal democracy. The marriage of his favorite son with an estimable actress is the occasion for favorably contrasting this trait with the pretensions of many men of overgrown fortunes. It is worth remembering to Jay Gould's credit that the posession of excessive wealth did not produce on his part the arrogation of superior blood and aristocratic surroundings which is so frequently the case.

When we pass from Mr. Gould's personal character to his relation with public business and morals, it is impossible to retain that commendatory tone. It must be said that Mr. Gould's influence on business and morals has been wholly bad. He has not only demonstrated the scientific methods by which corporations can be managed to the detriment of the public and the ordinary shareholders for the enrichment of a few manipulators, but he has demoralized the business conscience by exhibiting the illustration of the greatest wealth gained by the most unscrupulous disregard of financial honesty and public morals. It is just to say that the general objurgation which has followed Mr. Gould's career is incorrect in making it appear that he was the only great offender of his class. There are plenty of others, some of whom were his contemporaries, and some of whom were more or less successful imitators of his methods. The reputation of being the typical devisor and executor of methods of corporate mismanagement for private enrichment cannot, even when death has intervened, be denied on Mr. Gould's behalf.

Yet it would be short-sighted to omit a recognition of the fact that Jay Gould was a product of the times. Under the conditions existing such a character was sure to exist. Given a general feeling that the attainment of wealth is the greatest good—so great that its successful pursuit condones the methods by which it is attained—given a corporate system in which the investments are counted by the thousands of millions and the commerce which it influences is counted by tens of thousands of millions; given a political system with so much of carelessness, or ignorance, or corruption that corporate powers can be perverted from the beneficial purposes for which they were created to the uses of private enrichment, and under such influences the rise of characters like Jay Gould is inevitable. In our own day this state of affairs has produced scores of the same class; and it will continue to do so as long as the social, corporate and political conditions furnish the motive for such careers. The public apathy with regard to the enforcement of the principles of law and morality in corporate management is to be charged with the responsibility for the evil in Mr. Gould's career and others like it.

Mr. Gould's death incidentally affords an indication of the way in which individual importance is overestimated. It was generally supposed that the death of the great manipulator and stock owner might have a disturbing effect on the stock market. The very weak foundation for such an apprehension was shown by the slight fluctuation and comparative steadiness of stocks since his death occurred. The fact is that the prosperity of the country stands upon too substantial a basis to be shaken by the death of any one man, however great his financial power may have been.

THE NATION'S FINANCES.

Much of the Interest Bearing Public Debt Cut Off and a Good Working Balance Kept on Hand.

The Treasurer of the United States, E. H. Nebecker, has submitted his annual report for the year ending June 30, 1892. The net ordinary revenues of the Government for the fiscal year were $354,937,784, a decrease of $37,674,663 as compared with the year before. The net ordinary expenditures were $345,023,330, a decrease of $10.349,354. The surplus revenues were thus cut down from $37,239,762 to $9,944,453. Including the public debt, the total receipt for the year were $36, 401,296, and their expenditures $634,010,289.

Consider with respect to the effect upon the Treasury, the receipts are divided in two general classes, of which the first comprising the ordinary revenues, the receipts from loans and the deposits for the retirement of national bank notes, increase for the time the cash available for the uses of Government, while the second from the issue of gold, silver and currency certificates United States notes and Treasury notes tend to swell the assets of the Treasury, but do not affect the avaliable balance. For the first of these classes the figures show an excess of $88,000,000 of expenditures over revenue in 1891 and one of upwards of $27,000,000 in 1892. In the second class there was an excess of $69,000,000 of receipts in the former year and one of $80,000,000 in the latter. As compared with 1891, there was a saving of upwards of $13,000,000 of interest, out of which a surplus was realized notwithstanding the cutting down of the revenues by legislation.

Analyzing the true condition of the Treasury and setting aside the trust funds, the Treasurer shows that there was a working balance of cash and deposits in banks, ammounting to $207,110,452 at the beginning of the year, and of $165,718,151 at the end. Of the former amount $119,000,000 and of the latter $114,500,000 was gold. The success which has attended the efforts of the department to maintain a stroug gold reserve, is considered satisfactory in view of the heavy disbursements.

The amount of the public debt is given as $1,545,996,591 on June 30, 1891, and $1,588,464,144 on June 30, 1892. The loans resting on the credit of the United States were cut down from $1,005,806,560 $968,218,840, while those secured by full deposits in the Treasury increased from $540,390,031 to $620,254,301. There was a gratifying improvement in the condition of the debt produced by the reduction of the interest bearing loans the conversion of matured bonds into others payable at the option of the Secretary of the Treasury and the extinction of considerable of the loans payable on demands. The total net reduction of $37,587,720 in these items was effected by the application of the surplus revenue of the year, amounting to nearly $10,000,000 taken from the cash in the Treasury.

According to the revised estimates, the total stock of money of all kinds in the country on June 30 was $2,374,234,049, an increase of $150,000,000 in the year. By eliminating that part of the paper currency which is purely representative, consisting of certificates of deposits and Treasury notes, the effective stock is found to have been $1,753,953,745 an increases of $800,000,000.

The issues of United States paper currency amounted to $376,727,583, exceding those of any previous year. The nearest approach in this total was $310,000, in the year before and the nearest $291,000,000 in 1863.

UNCLE SAM'S PENSION ROLL.

The last annual report of Commissioner Raum, of the Pension Bureau, made public Wednesday, gives some interesting figures. On June 30, 1892, there were 376,568 pensioners on the rolls, the increase of 199,008 during the past year having been brought about by new legislation, notably the Dependent Pension bill, which Mr. Cleveland once vetoed, but which now as a law is generally conceded to be a just and wise measure. The Commissioner well says:

"The strain upon the life powers of the soldier was so great as to make permanent inroads upon the vital forces, which would necessarily result in the development of a multitude of ailments and disabilities beyond the reach of medicine. * * * Good health and the ability to perform labor were the soldier's capital. * * * A very large proportion of the men who carried the muskets have been unable to keep up with their neighbors who remained at home in the great struggle of life."

This measure brought aid to thousands who were seriously disabled from earning a living by manual labor, yet could not establish the fact that their disabilities were of service origin. The cost of pensions last year was $139,000,000; this year it will be about $155,000,000, and next year the estimated appropriations will aggregrate over $165,000,000.

After 1894 the maximum expense will have been reached; and already there is encouragement for uncomfortable Mugwumps in the fact that death is doing great work in lessening the number of pensioners. Last year 25,306 names were stricken from the rolls.

It is interesting to note that twenty widows and two daughters of revolutionary veterans are still drawing pensions; and there are 165 survivors of the war of 1812 on the rolls, 119 less than last year.

NOT A DEMOCRATIC SENATE YET

The term of office of thirty—one United States Senators will begin March 4 next. Nineteen of these seats are now held by Republicans aud only twelve by democrats. The present Senate stands 47 to 39 as between Republicans and democrats, with 2 Farmers' Alliance Senators—making a Republican majority of 6 over all. There were 12 Republicans 14 democrats and 1 independent—Nevada—undoubtly chosen by the recent elections, and the result in four States is still in doubt. The following shows the situation clearly:

Republican	Democratic	Doubtful.
Connecticut,	Delaware,	California
Maine,	Florida,	Kansas,
Massachusetts,	Indiana,	Montana,
Michigan,	*Maryland,	Nebraska—4
Minnesota,	*Mississippi,
North	Dakota,	Missouri,
*Ohio,	New Jersey,	Independent
Pennsylvania,	New York,	Nevada—1
*Rhode Island,	Tennessee,
*Vermont,	Texas,
Wyoming,	*Virginia,
Washington—12,	West	Virginia,
	Wisconsin—14

*Senators already elected. †One elected and another still to be chosen.

Leaving out the four doubtfuls, the next Senate will stand 40 Republicans, 41 democrats, 3 People's Party, thus indicating that control of that body rests with the political complexion of the Legislatures still claimed by both sides. The meager and conflicting news telegraphed East concerning the contests affords little aid in fixing upon the probable final results. The Wyoming Legislature alone seems to be definitely made up. It is Republican. To-day's news from Montana and Kansas indicates that a Republican will be returned from each State, but the local complications are likely to continue and make everything uncertain until the Legislatures really meet and ballot. The chances favor the selection of an independent from California.

In none of these States can the democrats hope to secure a straightout party man as Senator. Their only chance is to aid in the election of a Populist. Stewart, of Nevada, now sitting as a Republican Senator, returns as a Populist on silver, but otherwise will probably remain in the party ranks. It is possible that the Californian elected will do the same. It is apparent, therefore, that the democrats will lack one or two votes of a majority of the Senate. If a reroganization is made, therefore, it will have to be on lines dictated by the Populist.

PRISONER ESCAPES.

Last Friday morning Constable Alfred Lucas, of Snow Shoe, was on his way to Bellefonte with a prisoner by the name of William Robinson who he had arrested at Uzzle's Hotel. Robinson had been arrested on complaint of his wife for desertion. They took the train for Bellefonte and when near School House crossing the prisoner suddenly started for the platform and jumping from the train while it was in full motion escaped. The Robinsons lived at Utahville, Clearfield county, and the wife alleges that he left her one year ago in destitute circumstances. She learned that he was at Snow Shoe, so went there to have him apprehended. She declares that she will follow him up and if possible compell him to contribute to her support.

—Monday night at 12 o'clock the Ammerman sisters on Bishop street heard someone in the house. They could hear steps on the floor, then they heard the door lock rattle as though someone was trying to open the door. This frightened them and they called Dr. Bush, who lives near, and he called to his assistance Louis Doll, who lives on the other side of the street, but during this time the parties left In getting out of the window they let the sash fall which in the still night hour made such a noise that the men coming to the girls' rescue heard it. Upon examination however nothing was missed or found out of place. An entrance was effected by climbing on to the porch and getting in at a window. The trespasser escaped without detection.

A TALK WITH BLAND.

The Coinage Committee Chairman on the Conference.

Discussing the International Monetary Conference and the prospects for results therefrom, Chairman Bland, of the Committee on Coinage, says he does not expect anything from it.

"Suppose that the conference should fail and that a proposition should then be made to repeal the Sherman law, what then?"

"That will be proposed anyway, I presume. I am in favor of repealing it if we can get something better for silver. I don't like the Sherman law myself. At the time it was proposed I stated on the floor of the House and in my report that it would not increase the value of silver or tend to promote its restoration as money; that it would be a failure in that respect. Yet you might say it is a connecting link between total demonitization and something better. Hence, I think it would be bad policy to repeal it unless we can do something else at the same time.

TO RESTRICT IMMIGRATION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The senate immigration committee before adjourning to-day considered the following proposition:

"All immigration except from North and South American countries shall be suspended for one year from March 1, 1893, the law to be so framed as not to hinder the free return of American citizens or the easy admission of visitors."

No vote was taken on this resolution but it is probable that one may be taken at to-morrow's meeting, and there is good reason for believing that it will be passed.

Various suggestions for legislation for the restriction of immigration were submitted by the chairman for the consideration of the committee which it was decided not to take up before the meeting of congress, but it was determind, in view of the greatly-apprehended danger of the coming of cholera in 1893, to limit the present consideration of the subject to the questions of the total suspension of immigration for one year.

The committee also decided that it was advisable to submit to congress the consideration of a law embracing the following propositions:

"First—No immigrant shall be admitted to the United States between the ages of 12 and 55 years unless he can read freely his native language.

"Second—No immigrant shall be admitted unless he possesses $100 or its equivalent, except that the head of a family may bring with him or send for the other members of his family if he or she posses $25 to each member.

"Third—All intending immigrants shall bring with them certificates from the United States consuls abroad, showing that they have satisfied such consul that they have a right to admission as immigrants.

"Fourth—All persons seeking final naturalization papers shall give reasonable notice to the court to which they intend to apply, and same officials representing the government shall investigate the facts upon the other side when the application is considered."

PENNSYLVANIA TOURS TO FLORIDA.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company announces its series of personally conducted tours to Florida for January 31st, February 14th and 28th, March 14th and 28th. The party will travel by special train of Pullman sleeping and dining cars, and they will go through via the Atlantic Coast Line on fast schedule. The Tourist Agent and Chaperon will conduct each tour in both directions, except that passengers on last tour will return independently by regular trains, and all the details will be carried out in that superior style for which these trips have become celebrated.

Excursion tickets, including railway transportation, Pullman accommodations and meals en route in both directions, will be sold from all principal stations on the system. They will be good only on the special trains, and will only be accepted for the return trip on the regular returning train of that tour, except for the fifth tour returning, which will be good by regular trains. They will admit of a stay of two weeks in Florida, except in the case of the fifth tour, which has a longer return limit, tickets being good for return passage until May 30th, 1893. For information detailing the tours application should be made to Mr. Geo. W. Boyd, A. G. P. A., Philadelphia.

RIZPAH ON THE ROCK

DR. TALMAGE ON THE DEEP TRAGEDY OF THE SONS OF SAUL.

The Crime of Saul Destroyed His Posterity as Well as Himself—The Agonies of Bereaved Mothers—The Heroines of History.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 4.—This is one of those discourses of Dr. Talmage delivered from texts which no one seems to have used before. Important and practical lessons were drawn. The opening hymn, in which many thousands joined, was:

Come, ye disconsolate, where'er ye languish.

The subject of the sermon was "Rizpah on the Rock," the text selected being II Samuel xxi, 10, "And Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, took sackcloth and spread it for her upon the rock, from the beginning of harvest until water dropped upon them out of heaven, and suffered neither the birds of the air to rest on them by day nor the beasts of the field by night."

Tragedy that beats anything Shakespearean or Victor Hugoian. After returning from the Holy Land I briefly touched upon it, but I must have a whole sermon for that scene. The explosion and flash of gunpowder have driven nearly all the beasts and birds of prey from those regions, and now the shriek of the locomotive whistle which is daily heard at Jerusalem will for many miles around clear Palestine of cruel claw and beak. But in the time of the text those regions were populous with multitudes of jackals and lions. Seven sons of Saul had been crucified on a hill. Rizpah was mother to two and relative to five of the boys. What had these boys done that they should be crucified? Nothing except to have a bad father and grandfather. But now that the boys were dead why not take them down from the gibbets? No. They are sentenced to hang there.

So Rizpah takes the sackcloth, a rough shawl with which in mourning for her dead she had wrapped herself, and spreads that sackcloth upon the rocks near the gibbets, and acts the part of a sentinel, watching and defending the dead. Yet every other sentinel is relieved, and after being on guard for a few hours some one else takes his place. But Rizpah is on guard both day and night for half a year. One hundred and eighty days and nights of obsequies. What nerves she must have had to stand that! Ah, do you not know that a mother can stand anything?

THE MOTHER'S VIGILS.

Oh, if she might be allowed to hollow a place in the side of the hill and lay the bodies of her children to quiet rest! If in some cavern of the mountains she might find for them Christian sepulture! Oh, if she might take them from the gibbet of disgrace and carry them still farther away from the haunts of men, and then lie beside them in the last long sleep! Exhausted nature ever and anon falls into slumber, but in a moment she breaks the snare, and chides herself as though she had been cruel, and leaps up on the rock, shouting at wild beast glaring from the thicket and at vulturous brood wheeling in the sky. The thrilling story of Rizpah reaches David, and he comes forth to hide the indecency. The corpses had been chained to the trees. The chains are unlocked with horrid clank, and the skeletons are let down. All the seven are buried, and the story ends.

But it hardly ends before you cry out, What a hard thing that those seven boys should suffer for the crimes of a father and grandfather! Yes. But it is always so. Let every one who does wrong know that he wars not only, as in this case, against two generations, children and grandchildren, but against all the generations of coming time. That is what makes dissipation and uncleanness so awful. It reverberates in other times. It may skip one generation, but it is apt to come up in the third generation, as is suggested in the Ten Commandments, which say, "Visiting the iniquities of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation."

Mind you, it says nothing about the second generation, but mentions the third and the fourth. That accounts for what you sometimes see—very good parents with very bad children. Go far enough back in the ancestral line and you find the source of all the turpitude. "Visiting the iniquities of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation." If when Saul died the consequences of his iniquity could have died with him it would not have been so bad. Alas, no! Look on that hill a few miles out from Jerusalem and see the ghastly burdens of those seven gibbets and the wan and wasted Rizpah watching them.

Go today through the wards and almshouses and the reformatory institutions where unfortunate children are kept and you will find that nine out of ten had drunken or vicious parents. Yea, day by day on the streets of our cities you find men and women wrecked of evil parentage. They are moral corpses. Like the seven sons of Saul, though dead, unburied. Alas for Rizpah, who not for six months, but for years and years, has watched them! She cannot keep the vultures and the jackals off.

Furthermore, this strange incident in Bible story shows that attractiveness of person and elevation of position are no security against trouble.

THE DISCOVERED FAVORITE.

Who is this Rizpah sitting in desolation? One of Saul's favorites. Her personal attractions had won his heart. She had been caressed of fortune. With a mother's pride she looked on her princely children. But the scene changes. Behold her in banishment and bereavement—Rizpah on the rock!

Some of the worst distresses have come to scenes of royalty and wealth. What porter at the mansion's gate has not let in champing and lathered steed bringing evil dispatch? On what tessellated hall has there not stood the solemn bier? Under what exquisite fresco has there not been enacted a tragedy of disaster? What curtained couch hath heard no cry of pain? What harp hath never trilled with sorrow? What lordly nature hath never leaned against carved pillar and made utterance of woe? Gall is not less bitter when quaffed from a golden chalice than when taken from a pewter mug. Sorrow is often attended by running footmen and laced lackeys mounted behind. Queen Anne Boleyn is desolate in the palace of Henry VIII.

Adolphus wept in German castles over the hypocrisy of friends. Pedro I among Brazilian diamonds shivered with fear of massacre. Stephen of England sat on a rocking throne. And every mast of pride has bent in the storm, and the highest mountains of honor and fame are covered with perpetual snow. Sickness will frost the rosiest cheek, wrinkle the smoothest brow and stiffen the sprightliest step. Rizpah quits the courtly circle and sits on the rock.

Perhaps you look back upon scenes different from those in which now from day to day you mingle. You have exchanged the plenty and luxuriance of your father's house for privation and trials known to God and your own heart. The morning of life was flushed with promise. Troops of calamities since then have made desperate charge upon you. Darkness has come. Sorrows have swooped like carrion birds from the sky and barked like jackals from the thicket. You stand amid your slain anguished and woe struck. Rizpah on the rock.

So it has been in all ages. Vashti must doff the spangled raiment of the Persian court and go forth bleeding from the palace gate. Esaus exchange oriental comfort for the wilderness of Beersheba. Mary, queen of Scots, must pass out from flattery and pomp to suffer ignominious death in the castle of Fotheringay. The wheel of fortune keeps turning, and mansions and huts exchange, and he who rode the chariot pushes the barrow, and instead of the glare of festal lights is the simmering of the peat fire, and in the place of Saul's palace is the rock—the cold rock, the desolate rock.

But that is the place to which God comes. Jacob, with his head on a stone, saw the shining ladder. Israel in the desert beheld the marshaling of the fiery baton. John on barren Patmos heard trumpeting, and the clapping of wings, and the stroke of seraphic fingers on golden harps, and nothing but heavenly strength nerved Rizpah for her appalling mission amid the scream of wild birds and the stealthy tread of hungry monsters. The grandest visions of glory, the most rapturous experiences of Christian love, the greatest triumphs of grace have come to the tried, and the hard pressed, and the betrayed, and the crushed. God stooping down from heaven to comfort Rizpah on the rock.

THE HEROISM OF WOMAN.

Again the tragedy of the text displays the courage of woman amid great emergencies. What mother or sister or daughter would dare to go out to fight the cormorant and jackal? Rizpah did it. And so would you if an emergency demanded. Woman is naturally timid and shrinks from exposure and depends on stronger arms for the achievement of great enterprises. And she is often troubled lest there might be occasions demanding fortitude when she would fail. Not so. Some of those who are afraid to look out of door after nightfall, and who quake in the darkness at the least uncertain sound, and who start at the slam of the door and turn pale in a thunderstorm, if the day of trial came, would be heroic and invulnerable.

God has arranged it so that woman needs the trumpet of some great contest of principles or affection to rouse up her slumbering courage. Then she will stand under the cross fire of opposing hosts at Chalons to give wine to the wounded. Then she will carry into prison and dark lane the message of salvation. Then she will brave the pestilence. Deborah goes out to sound terror into the heart of God's enemies. Abigail throws herself between a raiding party of infuriated men and her husband's vineyards. Rizpah fights back the vultures from the rock.

Among the Orkney islands an eagle swooped and lifted a child to its eyrie far up on the mountains. With the spring of a panther the mother mounts hill above hill, crag above crag, height above height. The fire of her own eye outflashes the glare of the eagle's, and with unmailed hand stronger than the iron beak and the terrible claw she hurls the wild bird down the rocks! In the French revolution Cazotte was brought out to be executed, when his daughter threw herself on the body of her father and said: "Strike, barbarians! You cannot reach my father but through my heart!" The crowd parted, and linking arms father and daughter walked out free.

During the siege of Saragossa Augustina carried refreshments to the gates. Arriving at the battery of Portillo she found that all the garrison had been killed. She snatched a match from the hand of a dead artilleryman and fired off a twenty-six pounder, then leaped on it and vowed she would not leave it alive. The soldiers looked in and saw her daring and rushed up and opened another tremendous fire on the enemy.

The life of James I of Scotland was threatened. Poets have sung those times, and able pens have lingered upon the story of manly endurance, but how few to tell the story of Catharine Douglas, one of the queen's maids, who ran to bolt the door, but found the bar had been taken away so as to facilitate the entrance of the assassin. She thrust her arm into the staple. The murderers rushing against it, her arm was shattered. Yet how many have since lived and died who never heard the touching, self sacrificing, heroic story of Catharine Douglas and her poor shattered arm.

You know how calmly Mme. Roland went to execution, and how cheerfully Joanna of Naples walked to the castle of Muro, and how fearlessly Mme. Grimaldi listened to her condemnation, and how Charlotte Corday smiled upon the frantic mob that pursued her to the guillotine. And there would be no end to the recital if I attempted to present all the historical incidents which show that woman's courage will rouse itself for great emergency.

THE WILD BEASTS OF WANT AND POVERTY.

But I need not go so far. You have known some one who was considered a mere butterfly in society. Her hand had known no toil; her eye had wept no tear over misfortune. She moved among obsequious admirers as careless as an insect in a field of blossoming buckwheat. But in eighteen hundred and sixty-seven financial tempest struck the husband's estate. Before he had time to reef sail and make things snug the ship capsized and went down. Enemies cheered at the misfortune and wondered what would become of the butterfly. Good men pitied and said she would die of a broken heart.

"She will not work," say they, "and she is too proud to beg." But the prophecies have failed. Disaster has transformed the shining sluggard into a practical worker. Happy as a princess, though compelled to hush her own child to sleep, and spread her own table, and answer the ringing of her own doorbell. Her arm had been muscled for the conflict against misfortune. Hunger and poverty and want and all the other jackals Rizpah scares from the rock.

I saw one in a desolate home. Her merciless companion had pawned even the children's shoes for rum. From honorable ancestry she had come down to this. The cruse of oil was empty and the last candle gone out. Her faded frock was patched with fragments of antique silk that she had worn on the bright marriage day. Confident in God, she had a strong heart to which her children ran when they trembled at the staggering step and quailed under a father's curse. Though the heavens were filled with fierce wings, and the thickets gnashed with rage, Rizpah watched faithfully day after day and year after year, and wolf and cormorant by her God strengthened arm were hurled down the rock.

You pass day by day along the streets where there are heroines greater than Joan of Arc. Upon that cellar floor there are conflicts as fierce as Sedan, and heaven and hell mingle in the fight. Lifted in that garret there are tribunals where more fortitude is demanded than was exhibited by Lady Jane Grey or Mary, queen of Scots.

THE CHRISTIAN HEROINE.

Now I ask, if mere natural courage can do so much, what may we not expect of women who have gazed on the great sacrifice, and who are urged forward by all the voices of grace that sound from the Bible and all the notes of victory that speak from the sky? Many years ago the Forfarshire steamer started from Hull bound for Dundee. After the vessel had been out a little while the winds began to rave and billows rise until a tempest was upon them. The vessel leaked, and the fires went out, and though the sails were hoisted fore and aft she went speeding toward the breakers. She struck with her bows foremost on the rock. The vessel parted. Amid the whirlwind and the darkness all were lost but nine. These clung to the wreck on the beach.

Sleeping that night in Longstone lighthouse was a girl of gentle spirit and comely countenance. As the morning dawns I see that girl standing amid the spray and tumult of contending elements looking through a glass upon the wreck and the nine wretched sufferers. She proposes to her father to take boat and put out across the wild sea to rescue them. The father says: "It cannot be done! Just look at the tumbling surf!" But she persisted, and with her father bounds into the boat. Though never accustomed to plying the oar, she takes one and her father the other. Steady now! Pull away! Pull away!

The sea tossed up the boat as though it were a bubble, but amid the foam and the wrath of the sea the wreck was reached, the exhausted people picked up and saved. Humane societies tendered their thanks. Wealth poured into the lap of the poor girl. Visitors from all lands came to look on her sweet face, and when soon after she launched forth on a dark sea, and Death was the oarsman, dukes and duchesses and mighty men sat down in tears in Alnwick castle to think they never again might see the face of Grace Darling.

No such deeds of daring will probably be asked of you, but hear you not the howl of that awful storm of trouble and sin that hath tossed ten thousand shivered hulks into the breakers? Know you not that the whole earth is strewn with the shipwrecked—that there are wounds to be healed, and broken hearts to be bound, and drowning souls to be rescued? Some have gone down, and you come too late, but others are clinging to the wreck, are shivering with the cold, are strangling in the wave, are crying to you for deliverance. Will you not, oar in hand, put out today from the lighthouse?

When the last ship's timber shall have been rent, and the last Longstone beacon shall have been thundered down in the hurricane, and the last tempest shall have folded its wings, and the sea itself shall have been licked up by the tongue of all consuming fire, the crowns of eternal reward shall be kindling into brighter glory on the brow of the faithful. And Christ, pointing to the inebriate that you reformed, and the dying sinner whom you taught to pray, and the outcast whom you pointed to God for shelter, will say: "You did it to them! You did it to me!"

ENDURANCE OF MATERNAL LOVE.

Again, the scene of the text impresses upon us the strength of maternal attachment. Not many men would have had courage or endurance for the awful mission of Rizpah. To dare the rage of wild beasts, and sit from May to October unsheltered, and to watch the corpses of unburied children, was a work that nothing but the maternal heart could have accomplished. It needed more strength than to stand before opened batteries or to walk in calmness the deck of a foundering steamer.

There is no emotion so completely unselfish as maternal affection. Conjugal love expects the return of many kindnesses and attentions. Filial love expects parental care or is helped by the memory of past watchfulness. But the strength of a mother's love is entirely independent of the past and the future, and is, of all emotions, the purest. The child has done nothing in the past to earn kindness, and in the future it may grow up to maltreat its parent; but still from the mother's heart there goes forth inconsumable affection.

Abuse cannot offend it; neglect cannot chill it; time cannot efface it; death cannot destroy it. For harsh words it has gentle chiding; for the blow it has beneficent ministry; for neglect it has increasing watchfulness. It weeps at the prison door over the incarcerated prodigal, and pleads for pardon at the governor's feet, and is forced away by compassionate friends from witnessing the struggles of the gallows. Other lights go out, but this burns on without extinguishment, as in a gloom struck night you may see a single star—one of God's pickets—with gleaming bayonet of light guarding the outposts of heaven.

The marchioness of Spadara, when the earthquake at Messina occurred, was carried out insensible from the falling houses. On coming to her senses she found that her infant had not been rescued. She went back and perished in the ruins. Illustration of ten thousand mothers who in as many different ways have sacrificed themselves for their children.

Oh, despise not a mother's love! If heretofore you have been negligent of such an one and you still have opportunity for reparation, make haste. If you could only just look in for an hour's visit to her, you would rouse up in the aged one a whole world of blissful memories. What if she does sit without talking much? She watched you for many months when you knew not how to talk at all. What if she has many ailments to tell about? During fifteen years you ran to her with every little scratch and bruise, and she doctored your little finger as carefully as a surgeon would bind the worst fracture.

You say she is childish now. I wonder if she ever saw you when you were childish. You have no patience to walk with her on the street, she moves so slowly. I wonder if she remembers the time when you were glad enough to go slowly. You complain at the expense of providing for her now. I wonder what your financial income was from one year to ten years of age. Do not begrudge what you do for the old folks. I care not how much you did for them; they have done more for you.

THE REUNION AFTER DEATH.

But from this weird text of the morning comes rushing in upon my soul a thought that overpowers me. This watching by Rizpah was an after death watching. I wonder if now there is an after death watching. I think there is. There are Rizpahs who have passed death, and who are still watching. They look down from their supernal and glorified state upon us, and is not that an after death watching? I cannot believe that those who before their death were interested in us have since their death become indifferent as to what happens to us.

Not one hour of the six months during which Rizpah watched seated upon the rocks was she more alert or diligent or armed for us than our mother, if glorified, is alert and diligent and armed for us. It is not now Rizpah on a rock, but Rizpah on a throne. How long has your mother been dead? Do you think she has been dead long enough to forget you? My mother has been dead twenty-nine years. I believe she knows more about me now than she did when I stood in her presence, and I am no Spiritualist either. The Bible says, "Are they not all ministering spirits sent forth to minister to them that shall be heirs of salvation?"

Young man, better look out what you do and where you go, for your glorified mother is looking at you. You sometimes say to yourself, "What would mother say if she knew this?" She does know. You might cheat her once, but you cannot cheat her now. Does it embarrass us to think she knows all about us now? If she had to put up with so much when she was here surely she will not be the less patient or excusatory now.

Oh, this tremendous thought of my text—this after death watching! What an uplifting consideration! And what a comforting thought! Young mother, you who have just lost your babe, and who feels the need of a nearer solace than that which comes from ordinary sympathy, your mother knows all about it. You cannot run in and talk it all over with her as you would if she were still a terrestrial resident, but it will comfort you some, I think—yea, it will comfort you a good deal—to know that she understands it all. You see that the velocities of the heavenly conditions are so great that it would not take her a half second to come to your bereft heart.

Oh, these mothers in heaven! They can do more for us now than before they went away. The bridge between this world and the next is not broken down. They approach the bridge from both ways, departing spirits and coming spirits, disimprisoned spirits and sympathizing spirits. And so let us walk as to be worthy of the supernal companionships, and if to any of us life on earth is a hard grind, let us understand that if we watch faithfully and trust fully our blessed Lord there will be a corresponding reward in the land of peace, and that Rizpah, who once wept on a rock, now reigns on a throne.

The Flannel Cake Man.

The Brown the Buckwheat, Brown the Wheat Man, was in his glory as he never was before.

Not only were the orders ringing in his ears faster than he could fill them, but an admiring circle was constantly formed outside his show window and watched his operations with an interest which showed that those in it were not to the manner born. To the everlasting credit of Brown the Buckwheat, Brown the Wheat, be it said that he realized his position as one of the great attractions of the city and rose to the spectacular occasion in a manner which showed him not only to be an artist in butter cakes, but in a histrionic way as well.

With what an air he polished his yard wide griddle with a swab of greased cloth and bestirred the batter! With how beautiful a flourish he poured out the rich, golden mixture upon the slippery surface! How like a prestidigitateur he performed the flipflap act! And with what overwhelming grace he piled the brown circles upon the plate and with lordly air summoned the waiter to "Take 'er away!" How plump and fair are his bare arms, and how white and immaculate the cook's cap upon his head!

The master of the griddle is an old story to some of us, but we must confess that he is a picturesque and pleasing figure of city life. His flannel cakes are often very flannel, and his maple sirup often tastes more of the glucose factory than the maple "bush." But neither tastes badly if the appetite be good, and when we realize how picturesque he is and what a comfort to the eyes of the guest from out of town, we forgive him for his eatable liver pads and pay due honor to his artistic talents.—New York Herald.

Protecting Sea Beaches.

It is estimated that about 1,000,000 acres on the Atlantic and Baltic shores of Europe have become since the destruction of the forests a moving desert of sand dunes, rolling inland, burying the fertile soil and rendering the land barren by the sand showers sprinkled over it, while following the landward roll of the dunes came the resistless march of the victorious sea.

The endeavor of these threatened countries has been to regain by slow degrees the protection of the forests so rashly destroyed. First, a breakwater or dike is constructed—occasionally a mere plank fence—against which the sand from the beach soon forms long rows of dunes. These sand hills, usually the enemies of the land, being thus hindered from drifting inland, are impressed into the service of the land and become its coast guard against the invading waves.

The second step is to plant them with beach grass, or some other sand loving plant, to bind the sand together and by the succession of growth and decay finally form a soil.—Agnes L. Carter in Popular Science Monthly.

Scotch Dress.

The dress of the last century survived to within living memory. Dr. Gregor, the venerable minister of Pitsligo, thus described to me his mother's preparations for church: "On her head she placed a skull cap to keep the hair up, and over that a fine linen cap, lying quite flat, followed by a broad ribbon going round the head and fastened behind. Over all came a band of thin cambric, drawn into a ruching on the top and having a broad, flat border, showing the hair on the edge. Her outer dress was a red cloak with a hood and made of fine wool. Her ordinary errand going cloak was a duffel of bluish gray. My father at kirk and fair wore a long coat, with brass buttons, of bluish cloth, and for a working dress homemade clothes, with a smaller coat of homespun wool. On all occasions he wore knee breeches."—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Common Meal.

In a country trip the writer took a family meal at the house of a New York state farmer. There was at one end of the table a platter with a huge piece of boiled salt pork, with potatoes floating about it in the greasy, watery gravy. A plate of soda raised biscuit, yellow and tough, flanked the pork and potatoes, and a large leather looking apple pie filled in the middle distance. The hostess presided behind a two quart teapot of boiled tea, and this meal, which was an ordinary home dinner, at which the stranger was unexpectedly present, was eaten with relish by the nine persons who made up the farmer's family. Is it any wonder that farmers' wives in America, who work ceaselessly and for the most part within doors, are notoriously short lived if such diet is common?—New York Times.

The Heart Beats in Animals.

When a healthy horse is enjoying perfect rest his pulse beats at the rate of forty times per minute, that of an ox fifty-two times, while in sheep and hogs the average cardiac pulsations are seventy-six per minute.—Indianapolis News.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

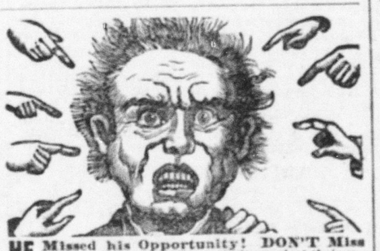
G. C. BITNER & CO., TOLEDO, O.



HE Missed his Opportunity! DON'T Miss Yours, Reader. The majority neglect their opportunities, and from that cause live in poverty and die in obscurity! Harrowing despair is the lot of many, as they look back on lost, forever lost, opportunity. Life is passing! Reach out. Be up and doing. Improve your opportunity, and secure prosperity, prominence, peace. It was said by a philosopher, that "the Goddess of Fortune offers a golden opportunity to each person at some period of life; embrace the chance, and she pours out her riches; fail to do so and she departs, never to return." How shall you find the GOLDEN opportunity? Investigate every chance that appears worthy, and of fair promise; that is what all successful men do. Here is an opportunity, such as is not often within the reach of laboring people. Improved, it will give, at least, a grand start in life. The GOLDEN opportunity for many is here. Money to be made rapidly and honorably by any industrious person of either sex. All ages. You can do the work and live at home, wherever you are. Even beginners are easily earning from $5 to $10 per day. You can do as well if you will work, not too hard, but industriously; and you can increase your income as you go on. You can give spare time only, or all your time to the work. Easy to learn. Capital not required. We start you. All is comparatively new and really wonderful. We instruct and show you how, free. Failure unknown among our workers. No room to explain here. Write and learn all free, by return mail. Unwise to delay. Address at once, H. Hallett & Co., Box 880, Portland, Maine.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED From 15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies that do not injure the health or interfere with one's business or pleasure. It builds up and improves the general health, clears the skin and beautifies the complexion. No wrinkles or flabbiness follow this treatment. Endorsed by physicians and leading society ladies. PATIENTS TREATED BY MAIL. CONFIDENTIAL. Harmless. No starving. Send 6 cents in stamps for particulars to DR. C. W. F. SNYDER, McVICKER'S THEATER, CHICAGO, ILL.

WE WANT YOU
to act as our agent. We furnish an expensive outfit and all you need free. It costs nothing to try the business. We will treat you well, and help you to earn ten times ordinary wages. Both sexes of all ages can live at home and work in spare time, or all the time. Any one any where can earn a great deal of money. Many have made Two Hundred Dollars a Month. No class of people in the world are making so much money without capital as those at work for us. Business pleasant, strictly honorable, and pays better than any other offered to agents. You have a clear field, with no competition. We equip you with everything, and supply printed directions for beginners which, if obeyed faithfully, will bring more money than will any other business. Improve your prospects! Why not? You can do so easily and surely at work for us. Reasonable industry only necessary for absolute success. Pamphlet circular giving every particular is sent free to all. Delay not in sending for it.

THE TOLEDO WEEKLY BLADE.

The most popular and best known weekly newspapar printed in this country is the TOLEDO BLADE. For more than twenty years it has had circulation of 100,000 to 200,000, going regular into every state and territory of the Union. From fifteen to twenty five tons of print paper is consumed in each week's edition, and it is regulary mailed to more than half the postoffices of the United States. It is a peculiar fact that the BLADE is the only weekly newspaper published that has regular subsribers in all parts of the United States. It is edited with special reference to the wants of all people in all sections. It is also made to interest every member of the family. Besides all the news of the world, it has Serial and Short Stories, Wit and Humor, Poetry, Camp-fire. Farm, Sunday School Lessons, Young Folks, Poultry, Puzzles, Household, Answers to Correpondents, Etc, Etc. As a special feature for 1893, Mr. Robinson Locke, editor and proprietor of the BLADE, has just sailed for Japan, and will contribute a series of illustrated letters on the manners and customs of that peculiar country and its people. These articles will be commenced some time in February or March; and will be worth to the readesrs of the BLADE many times the subscription price. Every readers of this paper is invited to send for a specimen copy. The publishers of the BLADE would be glad to send a specimen copy to every reader in this country. Subscription price of the BLADE, one dollar a year. Five dollars in cash will be paid to any person sending in a small club of subscribers. Write for agents' terms, giving particulars. Address "THE BLADE, Toledo, Ohio." We will furnish the BLADE and Republican for $2.25 a year.

TO DRIVE AWAY THE BLUES.

Did you ever have the blues, when you did not know what to do with yourself? Reading is what most people fall back on at such times, and nothing is better to drive away the blues than a good crisp story or a few good jokes. Our special offer of 25 back numbers of the Waverly Magazine, of different dates, for $1,00 postpaid, will supply you with about 400 short, clean and complete stories, jokes ect. The same amount of reading in the trashy 25c novel, would cost you $12.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habbit Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an uttor impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. Cures guaranteed.

THE TRIBUNE RALLIES THE PARTY!

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE is a newspaper to which the people of this country in general and especially the Republican party have always turned, instinctively, in public emergencies, for calm and courageous counsels, and a brave rallying cry. Never losing its head, never misleading the public by sensational utterances. THE TRIBUNE has many times calmed the public mind in times of disaster and led the way out of difficulties by sound advice and its own patriotic and well directed efforts. THE TRIBUNE does not, for a moment, yield the point on which the Presidential campaign was fought. It believes that the working men of this country have been deluded by demagogues; and that they have struck blindly as the very system under which they are prospering as they never have done before in their lives. THE TRIBUNE'S prospectus in another column tells the story. Republicans in this country will do well to subscribe for THE TRIBUNE this year in combination with their own local papers.

A HERALD OF THE INFANT YEAR.

Clip the last thirty years or more from the century, and the segment will represent the term of the unbounded popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The opening of the year 1893 will be signalized by the appearance of a fresh Almanac of the Bitters, in which the uses, derivation and action of this worldfamous medicine will be lucidly set forth. Everybody should read it. The calander and astronomical calculations to be found in this brochure are always astonishingly accurate, and the statistics, illustrations, humor and other reading matter rich in interest and full of profit. The Hostetter Company, of Pittsburg, Pa., publish it themselves. They employ sixty hands in the mechanical work and more than eleven months in the year are consumed in its preparation. It can be obtained without cost of all druggists and country dealers, and is printed in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder.—E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since.—J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Cond.

Russell Harrison's Paper Sold.

HELENA, Mon., Dec. 3.—Russell Harrison's paper—The Daily Journal—was sold under attachments yesterday by the sheriff. The total attachments against the paper and publishing company amount to over $100,000, while the total liabilities will run about $250,000.

A Murderer Captured.

FREDONIA, N. Y., Dec. 3.—August Haase, wanted in Newark, N. J., to answer to a charge of cutting the throat of Paul Schigel on the night of Oct. 4, was captured here by Detective Jackes, of Newark, who took his prisoner to that city today.

A Reporter Killed.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Dec. 3.—John A. Garvey, a reporter of The Daily News staff, of this city, and correspondent of the Indianapolis News, was instantly killed in the Nickel Plate yards by being run over by a switch engine.

McMillin Wants an Extra Session.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 3.—Congressman McMillin says an extra session of congress should be called next spring as a matter of justice to the people, who by their votes have demanded a change in the laws.

Earthquake in Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Dec. 3.—A very perceptible earthquake shock was felt here. The shock was not so severe as the one that shook Charleston in 1886. It created much excitement.

Lucius Polk Dead.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 3.—Lucius E. Polk, one of the prominent citizens of the state, is dead. During the late war he was a brigadier general in Cleburne's division.

Ex-Chancellor Williamson Dead.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 3.—Ex-Chancellor Williamson, of New Jersey, is dead. He had been ill for several weeks.

Crushed to Death.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Henry S. Washburn was crushed to death beneath a railroad car that fell on him.

FALL OF THE LEAF.

The bright green foliage of summer which is now variegated with golden tints, and leafless trees will soon presage the coming of winter's chilly blasts. Nature has been more than usually lavirh in her gifts and abundant crops make the heart of the husbandman glad. With the advent of fall it will be well for all to take proper safeguards against disease. A pure stimulant tones up the enfeebled system. For this purpose use Klein's world-famed "Silver Age" or "Duquense" rye. Both are warranted absolutely pure. They sell respectively at $1.50 and $1.25 per full quart. Sold by L. Schloss, Agent, Williamsport, Pa.

WOLCOTT BALESTIER'S posthumous novel "Benefits Forgot," will begin in the Christmas Century, which is to appear December 1st. It is a novel of life in Colorado, and is said to be full of adventure and romance. The characters are of a higher type than those in Mr. Balestier's short stories, "Reffey," etc. It will be accompanied by a portrait of the young author, from a photograph taken the last time he was in America.

Ripans Tabules are always ready.

DO YOU WANT TO ADOPT A BABY?
Maybe you think this is a new business, sending out babies on application; it has been done before, however, but never have those furnished been so near the original sample as this one. Everyone will exclaim, "Well! that's the sweetest baby I ever saw!" This little black-and-white engraving can give you but a faint idea of the exquisite original, which we propose to send to you, transportation paid. The little darling rests against a pillow, and is in the act of drawing off its pink sock, the mate of which has been pulled off and flung aside with a triumphant coo. The flesh tints are perfect, and the eyes follow you, no matter where you stand. The exquisite reproductions of this greatest painting of Ida Waugh (the most celebrated of modern painters of baby life) are to be given to those who subscribe to Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893. The reproductions cannot be told from the original, which cost $400, and are the same size (17x22 inches). The baby is life size, and absolutely lifelike. We have also in preparation, to present to our subscribers during 1893, other great pictures by such artists as Percy Moran, Maud Humphrey, Louis Deschamps, and others of world-wide renown. Take only two examples of what we did during the past year, "A Yard of Pansies," and "A White House Orchid" by the wife of President Harrison, and you will see what our promises mean.

Those who subscribe for Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893 will possess a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides a Magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep everyone posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion Magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and we give you, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2, and you will really get over $25 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send 10 cents for a specimen copy.

Lamp-chimneys cost so little that we let them go on breaking. We go on buying and grumbling.
What should we do?
Get Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass;" they are made of tough glass, tough against heat; they do not break in use; they do from accident.
They are fine, well made, exact; they fit the lamps they are made for; stand upright; the shade is right; they make a right draught for light; they are uniform. Both bear a label for your protection. Look for it.
Be willing to pay a nickel more and stop this constant expense and annoyance.

CONGRESS.

The session of congress which began at noon Monday expires by limitation on the 4th of March. As the holidays occur within a few weeks of the opening the session is really limited to two short months.

The organization being completed and the committees in working order, no time need be spent in getting ready for business. This ought to be a great advantage. Still it is seldom that anything of any consequence is done at the short session. There may be a new departure at the coming meeting, but it is scarcely probable.

The house is overwhelmingly democratic. The senate is nominally in control of the republicans, but on certain important public measures it is democratic. Several senators elected as republicans, one hailing from our own state, can no longer be depended upon to stand by republican principles.

There is the coinage question, for instance. A bill providing for the coinage of silver actually passed the senate at the last session, the measure receiving the support of nearly all the democrats and a few republicans. It was defeated in the democratic house for two reasons: First, the democrats were afraid to commit themselves in face of an approaching presidential election. Second, they knew that President Harrison would intervene with his veto, and that a two-thirds majority could not be obtained in the senate.

To all intents and purposes, therefore, the democrats now have control of both houses of congress. But the president is a staunch republican and no measure calculated to injure the country will become a law while he occupies the executive chair. It is hardly likely, however, that certain needed legislation will be attended to.

One of the measures which will come up for discussion and settlement is Mr. Washburn's anti-option bill. It prohibits dealing in futures and while it has passed one branch of congress has excited strenuous opposition, even some of the religious newspapers arguing that it ought not to become law. As it does not interfere with legitimate business, and as the practice of gambling in wheat and other neccessaries of life is a great evil, we do not see why any honest man should object to its incorporation among the laws of the land.

Congress will be asked to repeal the measure closing the Chicago fair on Sunday. The managers having received the congressional apropriation of $2,500,000 in souvenir half dollars which they will sell for $5,000,000, are now asking to be freed from any obligations to obey the laws of Illinois. It is to be hoped their request will be refused. Sunday opening will do the fair great harm and will be followed by evils of the most serious sort.

STOLEN BY INDIANS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29.—Secretary Noble has received from Gov. Fifer of Illinois a letter asking for the aid of the government in finding a child which it is believed has been carried into captivity by the Ute Indians. The child is Earl Roy Morley, whose parents live at New Castle, Col., and are friends of Gov. Fifer. Secretary Noble has instructed Indian agents to do all in their power to find the child.

A WOMAN BRUTAILY MALTREATED AND ROBBED LYNCHING THREATENED.

The northern portion of Hazleton was thrown into wild excitement last sunday by the boldest attempt at robbery and murder that has ever been made in that region. At three o'clock in the afternoon John Mattock, a Bohemian, knocked at the door of Joseph Plutessy, who was absent, and his wife Mary answered the call. Mattock stepped in and demanded money. Mrs. Plutessny was not prerpared to accommodate him and was expressing herself to that effect when and produced an axe and brought it down upon the defenseless woman's head.

Then he started to search for money. He visited all the rooms on the second floor, but without success. When he came down stairs, Mrs. Plutessny was showing signs of recovering consciousness. Mattock thought she might tell where the money was, and he waited for her to revive. When she did so the demand was renewed. She indicated that it was up stairs, and the man half carried her up the steps, and after depositing her on the floor he proceeded to look for the treasure.

Seeing her make a move towards the window he again pounced upon her and dealt her a blow with the axe. The woman was knocked senseless and he continued his search. The contents of a trunk, $60, did not satisfy him, and he began strangling her. Producing a piece of heavy twine tied it about her neck and twisted it until she became black in the face. Then twisting the cord with a stick he proceeded to dress himself in a suit of new clothes which he took a fancy to. Then he departed.

The woman had been dragged beneath a window and beckoned to a neighbor who ran to her assistance. The injured namow was released, but soon afterwards lost consciousness and has not since recovered.

Officers captured the desperado Sunday night. He refused to talk but was identified by fellow countrymen as the murderer of a man in Bohemia, and for which crime he is a fugitive from justice. The feeling against the prisoner is strong and frequent threats of lynching are made. It is feared that Mrs. Plutessny will die. If she should there would be no witness against the prisoner. Thus far she has not been able to make a statement.

DEATH OF JAMES M'CLINCY.

Death has again crossed the threshold of a family in Union township, and has smitten down one of its oldest and most honorable citizens, James McClincy. He owned a tract of land, but seemed to enjoy the life of a collier more than that of a farmer; yet for the last few years he depended mainly for his sustenance upon tilling the soil. Being favored, as he was, with immediate help around him, he seemed to make his way along quietly amongst those with whom he joined as neighbors. He was of a quiet, peaceful turn of mind, and with his wife has for many years stood identified with Messiah's church, being formerly quite regular in attendance upon its requisitions, but of late years not so much so; still, cherished the faith once delivered to the saints, read his Bible much, and held fast his confidence in God's promises unto the end; especially the doctrines of the earth renewed as the inheritance of the saints with Christ their king and the resurrection of the righteous, to reign with Him through eternal ages; according to the promises made to Abraham and David His physical decline was evident for more than a year, yet he was confined to his sick room only about six weeks. He was patient and submissive to his lot, and passed away on the morning of the 29th of November, 1892, at the age of 77 years, 9 months, and 7 days. He left an aged widow, five sons and four daughters, 56 grandchildren, and 13 great-grandchildren to mourn his departure, as well as a large circle of acquaintances who respected him. His remains were interred at Marsh Creek cemetery, on December the 1st, 1892, the writer officiating. The bereaved family has our sympathy and condolence in their sorrows. "While we sorrow not as those who have no hope."

Fraternally yours,
J. ZEIGLER.

POOR DUT HONEST.

Charlie Sullivan is a poor but honest Irish lad, who, while walking down Washington street, found a wallet containing checks and money to the value of several hundred dollars. Although almost destitute, he returned it to its owners, Messrs. A. P. Ordway & Co., proprietors of Sulphur Bitters, who gave him a liberal reward, and also gave him six bottles of Sulphur Bitters for his mother, who has been a terrible sufferer with rheumatism, and who returned many blessings after being cured by their use.—Weekly World.

PERSONAL.

A young lady of seventeen summers, highly educated, refined, and of prepossessing appearance, desires to form the acquaintance of some nice young man, whom she would advise, if troubled with dyspepsia, to use the great blood purifier, Sulphur Bitters.

As a preventive of the Grip Hood's Sarsaparilla has grown into great favor. It fortifies the system and purifies the blood.

HER SECRET.

Wonderful Completion Which No One Could Explain

ALL WOMEN WERE ENVIOUS OF HER FOR MANY YEARS.

Now They know All About It and Follow Her Example.

A lady well-known in our social circles has for years been at once the envy and admiration of all the ladies hereabouts, on accounts of the wonderful preservation of her health and beauty, and particularly because of her clear and dazzling complexion.

She has been many times urged by her acquaintances and friends to disclose the secret of her marvellously youthful appearance. Last evening she grew confidential to a little knot of friends, among whom the writer was present, and her secret is now a secret no longer.

"Why it is realy no secret at all" she said, "A perfect complexion depends upon just two things, strong nerves and a good digestion.

Most women are excessively nervous, weak and languid, and as a result their complexions are sallow and their faces pinched, drawn and wrinkled. Female difficulties always aggravate the trouble. Few women have perfect digestion. Now obviously, if women wish sound health and good complexions they must get their nerves strong, their digestion good and have no female weakness. Disorders of the stomach and liver, with the consequent clogging of the system, is very trying to the complexion. The best thing in the world to overcome these difficulties is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for it is a wonderful strengthener of weak nerves, and gives a vigorous appetite and perfect digestion. It should be used by every women who is at all weak or run down. Besides, it is a vegetable remedy, pure and harmless."

MRS. MARY FRANCES LYTLE.

The above is borne out by another no less popular lady, Mrs. Mary Frances Lytle, who resides at 2 Hunter Alley, Rochester, N. Y. In speaking upon the same subject she said:

"I was very pale and delicate and had no color whatever. I also had a very bad leucorrhoea all the time and suffered great pains at my periods.

"I am now all well thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. My face is plump and cheeks red, and my complexion pure.

"When I began the use of this most excellent remedy, I only weighed 81 pounds, now I weigh 115 pounds and am still gaining. Dr, Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a wonderful medicine. I have not had any trouble since I began taking it."

This great remedy is the discovery of the eminent and well-known physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th Street, New York. He gives consultation to all free of charge, and those who cannot visit him at his office, are privileged to write him all about their cases and thus get his advice by mail free.

It is certainly advisable for all to use this remarkable remedy, which can be procured at any drug store.

LO THE POOR INDIAN

The great Century dictionary conclusively shows that the term Mugwump means an Indian chief. It was used in this sense as far back as 1661 by Elliot, the apostle to the Indians.

Wherefore the combination of the Mugwumps with Tammany, another Indian chief, was be to expected, and has taken place,

All the real savages of the country are now assembled in the democratic party, any distinction between a Tammany democrat and any other kind of a democrat. Tammany has absorbed them all by a legitimate process of assimilation.

Good-by, Mugwump!

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29,—Owing to his present affliction the president will be unable to complete his annual message to congress in time for submission to that body on the opening day of the session. Consequently it is more than probable that the completion of the message will be delayed until the end of next week or the beginning of the following week. It will contain about 15,000 words.

INDIANS STIRRED UP.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Prominent officers of the army on duty in the East have been receiving alarming private advice from the Indian territory which point to an early uprising of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indian tribes in the country. The reports say that these tribes have within the past quarter been suffering greatly for the want of sufficient food, and that the immediate cause of the threatened uprising is due to the recent order of the Indian department directing a reduction in the rations.

The Cheyennes and the Arapahoes have heretofore been considered. Officers who know their character best declare that there must be grave cause to bring about hostile demonstrations from them.

FAIRCHILD IS FIXED.

Offered the Treasury Portfolio.—The New York Senatorship.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—There is no room for doubt at present that Charles S. Fairchild will accept his old portfolio, according to the Herald. Additional interest attaches to this fact because it is probably the first cabinet position to be absolutely determined upon. It became generally whispered around among Mr. Fairchild's friends that he had concluded to accept the position, and caused no little gratification among those who led the fight at Chicago for Mr. Cleveland's nomination through the May convention movement.

The tender of the treasury portfolio to Mr. Fairchild is understood to have been made within a day or two after the election.

One of the ex-secretary's friends said: "Mr. Fairchild has finally decided that he sees his way clear to become secretary of the treasury if the president insists upon his taking the place,"

The ex-secretary declined to have anything to say about the matter.

The senatorship continues to absorb the attention of politicians, but there is very little on the surface to indicate any opposition to Mr. Murphy outside of Kings county, where the delegation is unpledged.

Mr. Cleveland's position will be closely watched. It is believed by Mr. Cleveland's friends that he will free his mind on the senatorship, and a number of other questions at the Reform club dinner.

A Most Striking Illustration of the Value of a Single Vote.

The value of a single vote has frequently been demonstrated in our politics, but never more so than at present in Kansas, where two candidates for the Legislature having an equal number of votes, they consented to draw lots for the place, and the Republican won. This gives Republicans control of the Assembly, and probably the selection of a United States Senator. He, in turn, as a Republican, will stand as a barrier against democratic ascendency in the United States Senate, for, without the Senator from Kansas, the democrats cannot organize that body. Thus the entire control of the national government by the democracy may turn on the lack of a single Populist vote in Coffee County, Kansas.

Years ago, we believe, a single vote decided a gubernatorial contest in Massachusetts. Only last year in New York State, before the democrats began their seat stealing, a single vote cost the Republicans the Assemblyman from Sullivan County. Had he been chosen, the democrats could not have organized the Assembly. Many other instances could be cited showing the value of a single vote, but these are ample to impress upon each of our voters how much depends on the casting and counting of every ballot.

Deaf for a Year
Caused by
Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is a CONSTITUTIONAL disease, and requires a CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY like Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. Read:

"Three years ago, as a result of catarrh, I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attempt it, but no improvement was apparent. I could distinguish no sound. I was intending putting myself under the care of a specialist when some one suggested that possibly Hood's Sarsaparilla would do me some good. I began taking it without the expectation of any lasting help. To my surprise and great joy I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken three more. It is now over a year and I can hear perfectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable case, and cordially recommend to all who have catarrh." HERMAN HICKS, 30 Carter Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HARPER'S WEEKLY.
ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is acknowledged as standing first among illustrated weekly periodicals in America. It occupies a place between that of the hurried daily paper and that of the less timely monthly magazine. It includes both literature and news, and presents with equal force and felicity the real events of current history and the imaginative themes of fiction. On account of this very complete series of illustrations of the World's Fair, it will be not only the best guide to the great Exposition, but also its best souvenir. Every public event of general interest will be fully illustrated in its pages. Its contributions being from the best writers and artists in this country, it will continue to excel in literature news and illustrations, all other publications of its class.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE
Greatest of Republican Newspapers.

National in its aims and devoted to the welfare of the American people.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE concedes the election of Grover Cleveland, but promises to defend the Republican policy on Finance and Protection, with all the ability it can command,

It was the discontent of the farmers which caused the Democratic victories of two years ago. THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE, addressing itself directly to them for the past two years, has carried on a campaign of discussion for their benefit, almost unparalleled in American journalism; and the result coupled with Whitelaw Reid's previous great service to farmers, has been seen in the face that agricultural communities have stood faithful to the Republican party, in a campaign in which, in other localities the party went completely to pieces. This year, the Democratic leaders changed their tactics and excited discontent among workingmen. They pointed to the higher prices of of farm products, and assured the workingmen of Northern cities that the British tariff system, (that is to say, lessened protection to American Farming and Industry) would lower the prices of food and manufactured products, and the profits of "monopolists" in this country, while at the same time maintaining the wages of labor, those wages being now the highest ever known in the United States. By false pretence, deception, and a pandering to the lowest passions of uninformed men in large cities, they have carried the country and elected a Democratic President and Congress

The Tribune confidently awaits the result. Not for one moment, however, will The Tribune yield one inch of ground in the battle for American policies.

Roswell G. Horr's great articles will be among the features of The Tribune, the coming year. Men of every political faith are invited to read them. They will state the Republican view with frankness, point out the probable consequences of a change in the tariff policy of the country, and evade no issue, and conceal no fact, bearing upon the subjects discussed. Their thorough treatment of fundamental principles will aid every reader to a better understanding of profound and important issues.

A page a week will be devoted during 1893, to war stories and news of interest to union veterans. Old soldiers, who have some experience to tell, which has not yet been printed, are asked to send the story to The Tribune for publication.

Farming has now become such an enormous interest in the United States, that there is an imperative necessity for making more of a specialty of the business interests of the Farmers of the country at large. Plans have been formed which ought to make The Semi-Weekly and The Weekly Tribune absolutely indispensable to every tiller of the soil during 1893.

A large number of entertaining features of general interest will also appear. "How to Succeed in Life," "Village Improvement," special articles by brilliant men and women of high reputation, Chess and Checkers, and a hundred other things which cannot be recited in a brief prospectus, will appear on the Tribune's pages for 1893. The paper will have less politics and more of the thousand and one things which refresh the mind, entertain the imagination, and guide the reader in the prosecution of his business and social life.

The Tribune asks for reports as to the operations of Village Improvement Societies, from those who are acquainted with their operations

An illustrated catalogue of excellent premiums will be sent free on application.

The Semi-Weekly is particularly commended to the attention of general readers. It gives more of the keen, incisive editorials, book reviews, foreign letters and other valuable features of The Tribune, than there is room for in the Weekly. The large type and broad columns of the Tribune make it the easiest paper to read.

To all who subscribe during 1892 for one year, the paper will be sent free for the balance of this year. Sample copies free. Weekly $1.00. Semi-Weekly $2.00

Friends of Agriculture, Industry and the Republican party, are invited to make up clubs for this paper in their localities. There are four years' of trial, of new experiment, of discussion of great national topics, and of observation of the effects of Democratic supremacy before the country. The Tribune will lead in the presentation of the Republican view. The friends of the splendid record of the Republican party, can aid in the final triumph of Republican principles by seeing that the people read the Republican side of the story. THE TRIBUNE, New York.

Enter not into the path of the wicked and go not in the way of evil men.-Prov. 4—17.

For they eat the bread of wickedness and drink the wine of violence.-Prov.--4—17.

Mrs. Anna M. Hammer, the newly elected State president of the W. C. T. U., will hold a parlor meeting in the W. C. T. U, rooms, Saturday afternoon from two to four o'clock. All ladies old and young are most cordially invited to meet her.

THE HOPE THAT IS WITHIN US.

We do not know that the honest hand of toil shall yet grasp the helm of state—but we believe it. We do not know that prohibition shall yet prevail across the continent and be salted down by the salt seas' boundaries—but we believe it. We do not know that woman will bless and brighten every place she enters, and that she shall yet enter every place—but we believe it. The Bible is the chief cornerstone of these beliefs.

The labor movement can find no better motto than this from Christ's own lips, "My Father worketh hitherto and I work."

The temperance movement can find no better motto than His who said. "Every plant that my Heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up."

The woman movement can find no better motto than that of the great apostle who said; "There is neither male nor female, but ye are all one in Christ Jesus."

True, there must always be the day of small things before we reach the day of great. In our more modern days associated effort has come to the rescue in a fashion that mightily accelerates the progress of reform. What if Dorothea Dix had given her life to the individual care of a few of the insane poor instead of going before legislatures and founding insane hospitals throughout the Union? What if Clara Barton had nursed a few soldiers instead of founding the Red Cross Army that can minister to a whole nation in time of need? What if Lord Shaftesbury had tended the individual chimney-sweep or relieved the sorrows of sundry little ones ground down under the slavery of the coal pits instead of instituting laws that swept the curse of child labor out of England at one stroke? What if Charles Sumner had uplifted individual colored men instead of so utilizing the machinery of the state as to lift up a race?

But these are splendid illustrations of the genius of one. This day of a new inspiration shows us how to apply the genius of the many focalized into systematic blessedness through organization. I thank God that by its means the workingman, the home and universal womanhood are soon to find a protection as universal as their need.

Emerson says, looking at the stately cathedral in Rome, "And yet a little waving hand reared these huge columns." Yes, but that hand wrought with ten thousand others on one plan and to one purpose. Alone we can do little. Aggregated we, the units of weakness, become batteries of power. It was once the fashion in certain circles political to speak sneeringly of "mudsills" and of "the men with hayseeds in their hair." Now the mud opens to receive into silence and oblivion those who dared thus speak of men, and the hayseed harvest waves like Lebanon. Agitate, educate, organize, these are the deathless watchwords of success. The fingers of the hand can do little alone, but correlated into a fist they become formidable. The plank borne here and there by the sport of the waves is an image of imbecility, but frame a thousand planks of heart of oak into a hull, put in your engine with its heart of fire, fit out your ship, and it shall cross at a right angle those same waves to the port it has purposed to attain. We want all those like-minded with us, who would down the saloon, exalt the home, redeem manhood and uplift womanhood, to join hands with us for organized work according to a plan.

It is the way commerce has marched across this continent and captured it for civilization—one by one; it is the way an army is recruited, one by one; it is the way Christ's church is built up into power and heaven adds to its souls redeemed, just one by one.

Readers, one and all, will you not rally thus to the holy call of individual responsibility and gloriously united effort?

"For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrong that needs resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that you can do!"

HOW SICK FOLKS GET WELL.

No one needs wine, beer, brandy, and gin as a medicine. We can get better without it. Consider these facts—for they are facts.

THE VIRTUE OF MILK AND BEEF TEA.

A young lad was knocked down by a van in a London street, and taken to a large hospital. One morning the doctor examined him, and said—

"Nurse, give him two glasses of port wine daily;" and, looking kindly at the lad, he said, "You will get on very well, my boy?"

The young patient looked up, and replied—

"Please, sir, don't order me the wine."

"Why not, my boy?"

"If you please sir, I belong to a Band of Hope."

"Oh! answered he, "do you? Well Nurse, give him a pint of new milk in the morning, and as much beef tea as he likes;" and, laughing cheerily, he said to the boy, "You will get on very well, my lad." And he got quite well without the wine.

TAKE WINE OR DIE.

An editor of some very popular works, and a man of immense energy; felt, as he expressed it, "below par," and went two hundred miles to see his family physician.

"My good friend," said the doctor, "you must take two glasses of wine a day, or you will die." Yes, he would die. Nothing but wine would save him. He must take that or die. Resolved to have another medical opinion, Mr. S. returned to the Metropolis, and went to consult Sir James Clark.

"Sir," said the eminent man what are your habits?"

"I am a teetotaller, Sir James."

"Then, sir, you will get better all the sooner!"

So he did not drink wine, and he is not dead yet. He has done noble service for God and man for many years since his family doctor predicted his certain and speedy death. The fact is, alcoholic prescriptions often hasten death instead of preventing it, and many people have died through "drops of brandy" who would have lived had they resorted to beef tea, milk, oatmeal porridge, fresh air, cold water, and plenty of rest. Drugs and brandy are poor substitutes for the natural remedies, and the more simple our diet and medicines are the better.

COURAGE.

FANNIE BOLTON.

"God help us! who's ready?" There's danger ahead,
Who is able to stand? Hear the enemy's tread.
Hear the laugh of the demon all over the land
As they fall, our beloved, for the glass in his hand;
And northward and southward and eastward and west,
His legions are tramping to capture our best
Strong heroes are arming, strong hearts are at prayer.
The light and the darkness are wrestling in air;
But shall the night stay when the sun climbs the sky?
And shall the right fall then, to see the wrong die?
Take courage ye faithless, ye sorrowing rise,
We shall bring back our loved when our enemy dies.
"Be ready! All forward!" undaunted we cry
"For God, home and freedom we'll fight till we die."
"The rum-holes shall turn out their stench and their sin.
"And sunshine and liberty sweetly flow in
"Our hands shall be strong, the weak ones to grasp,
"Our hands shall be tender, the sad ones to clasp.
"The God of our fathers is guiding us still
"Men, women, all forward and conquer we will."

A VALUABLE GIFT.

Probably no physician of our day has gained such a reputation for curing cases of lingering or long standing diseases through treatment by mail as the great Specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th Street, New York, discoverer of the well known Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. He uses in his practice only harmless vegetable remedies, and has given special attention to treatment of patients at a distance through letter correspondence. Consultation in this manner or personally, is entirely free of charge. Any sufferer from whatever kind of disease has the privilege of writing to him a description of his or her case. and he will return a carefully considered answer fully explaining your disease and giving you a perfect understanding of all its symptoms, free of charge.

His success is something wonderful in restoring the sick to health, and his practice is without doubt the largest in this country. Send for his symptom blank and write him, sufferer, for his advice in your case. This will cost you nothing, and may lead to your cure.

The Christmas number of Harper's Young People will be published December 6th. It will contain illustrated Christmas stories by William Drysdale, Harriet Prescott Spofford, and John Kendrick Bangs; a Christmas patomime in one act, entitled "Dresden China," by Ellen Douglas Deland; a Christmas poem, "A Song of Kriss Kringle's Tree," by Margaret E. Sangster; a practical article, with illustrations, on Christmas presents, entitled "A Visit to Santa Claus's Warehouse," by Margaret Fezandie; and a full-page illustration, "Christmas Morning," by Otto Beck. There will also be a number of short articles on a variety of subjects, and the continuation of Kirk Munroe's interesting serial, "Raftmates," beside the usual supplement and a beautiful cover specially designed for this issue.

The January St. Nicholas will contain the opening paper in a series that magazine is to print on leading American cities, illustrated. In this article Colonel T. W. Higginson describes Boston in a way to interest boys and girls in the literary history of that city. For future number of St. Nicholas, Dr. Lyman Abbott will write of Brooklyn, Edmund Clarence Stadman will describe New York, and other famous residents of the different cities will describe them.

"The Potted Princess" is the title of Rudyard Kipling's East Indian fairy story which will appear in the January St. Nicholas with Birch's illustrations.

THE MOTHER'S NURSERY GUIDE.

The December number of THE MOTHER'S NURSERY GUIDE contains a valuable article on catarrhal affections, by Dr. G. C. Stout which points out the necessity of attending to these troubles at their earliest appearance in infancy. A talk on milk, by Dr. Graham Lusk, shows in what manner the natural food of children is superior to artificial, and Dr. S. A. Kime writes on certain fallacies concerning the use of eyeglasses, many parents erroneously withholding from their children the aid which well selected glasses give to defective eyes. The interesting "Personal Experiences in Home Training" are continued, holiday books for children are discussed, and there are a number of "Kindergarten-at-Home Stories." The mothers themselves contribute entertaining letters to the "Parliament," and Dr. L. M. Yale, the medical editor, gives advice concerning "Sudden Weaning," "Variety in food," "Contamination of Well Water," and many other nursery problems. The present number begins the ninth volume of this indispensable mother's guide. $2 a year. Sample copies sent free. Address, BABYHOOD PUBLISHING CO., 5 Beekman Street, New York.

The Christmas number of Harper's Weekly, published December 7th, will present an extraordinary combination of literary and artistic features. It will contain, among many other attractions, a beautiful double-page Christmas picture drawn by Howard Pyle; four pages of illustrations of "The New West Point," with descriptive comment by George I. Putnam; and two pages of characteristic illustrations by A. B. Frost. There will also be a delightful story by John Kendrick Bangs, and an article on "London Music Halls" by Richard Harding Davis, with appropriate illustrations. A variety of short articles on timely topics, thoughtful editorials on the questions of the day, poems, sketches etc., will help to complete this noteworthy and very interesting number.

Harper's Bazar for December 10th will be an elegant Christmas number, superbly illustrated, and containing many attractive holiday features. Among other Christmas stories, it will include "The Witch's Strong-Box," by Eva Wilder McGlasson, and "Deam Aldewater's Baby," by Florence Watters Snedeker; there will also be a Christmas poem by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mrs. John Sherwood will contribute a specially prepared article on "Afternoon Tea," giving full details of the etiquette of that social function. The illustrations will be numerous and particularly attractive.

The Holiday edition of "Tales from Town Topics," which is No. 6 of the series shows an increase in size and contains, in addition to the collection of stories, poems and witticisms culled from the well-known journal itself, an original novelette, seventy-five pages in length, entitled "The Sale of a Soul." The novelette is by C. M. S. McLellan, and it relates a story of metropolitan life in which a beautiful girl is raised from a Bowery saloon to the highest place in New York and London society. In its characters and local color "The Sale of a Soul" is highly entertaining, while the literary Melange gathered from TOWN TOPICS is of the usual bright and graceful description.—TOWN TOPICS, 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

—Allie Maitland, a sixteen year old son of W. B. Maitland, the proprietor of the Bellefonte Boiler Works, who must have gathered his practical knowledge of merchanical work at his father's manufactory, has invented a hoisting pully which it is thought by practical persons who have seen it will take the place of the block and tackle now in use, as it is more effective and much easier put in position. A patent has been applied for. We hope young Maitland may find his invention a profitable one and that genius my find its great reward.

JUST WHAT IS WANTED.

Business is alive to a great coming event, and preparations of all sorts for the Columbian Exposition in 1893 are active and earnest. Just what is wanted of a unique kind, has happily already made its appearance, and we have before us "THE OFFICIAL PORTFOLIO OF THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION," illustrated from Water Color Drawings.

This Portfolio is a rare beautiful exponent of the main architectural features of the Great Exposition at Chicago in 1893. The fourteen magnificent structures are faithfully exhibited, while the Bird's eye View gives a realistic glance at the lay of the grounds, with their principal buildings, lagoons, etc. The illustrations are exact reproductions, in water color effects, of the original drawings, made especially for this purpose from the official plans, by America's best known water color artist, Charles Graham.

A copy of this exceptionally fine production, will be sent to any address upon receipt of 10 cents in postage stymps, by The Charles A. Vogeler Co., Baltimore, Md.

A CENTRE COUNTIAN CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE IN CLINTON COUNTY.

J. M. Furey, formerly of Bellefonte, and a teacher in our public schools, is a candidate for county superintendent of schools in Clinton county. Mr. Furey is a democrat but not a very rabid one. He is also a subscriber to the Republican which no doubt accounts for his not being a bitter democrat he is however, a good man for the position. He is now aspiring to and if elected will make a good officer, The Democrat of Lock Haven has this to say about him:

J. Milton Furey, who has announced himself as candidate for county superintendent has had nine years of successful experience as a teacher. He graduated from the Normal school in this city in 1883, went to Montgomery county, where he taught for one term, afterwards removed to Centre county, where he took charge of the school at Pleasant Gap, the next year he assumed the management of the North ward schools, of Bellefonte, and remained there until the fall of 1888, when he removed to Lock Haven and became the principal of the Third ward school, in which position he served until the close of the spring term in 1890. He has appeared before various institutes and has been an active participant in the discussion of many questions before those gatherings. He is a man of family and pays both city and county taxes. His connection with the newspapers and his contract with the people of this county in gathering data for the History of Clinton county, of which book he is the author, has acquired for him an extensive acquaintance.

DEATH OF EX-GOVERNOR HENRY M. HOYT.

WILKESBARRE, December 1.—Ex Governor Henry M. Hoyt died at 2 o'clock this morning. He was surrounded by his family and a circle of sorrowing friends.

Henry Martyn Hoyt, son of Ziba Hoyt, was born in Kingston, Luzerne county, June 9th. 1830. He remained upon his father's farm until his seventeeth year, when, having finished his preparatory studies under the Rev. Dr. Reuben Nelson he entered Lafayette college. He finished his academic course at Williams college, Mass., where he graduated in 1849; opened a high school at Towanda, Pa., and was a professor of mathematics at the Wyoming seminary in the Wyoming conference; read law with Chief Justice G. W. Woodward, and was admitted to the bar in 1853. At the outbreak of the civil war he was active in the raising of the Fifty-second regiment, P. V., and was appointed by Governor Curtin lieutenant colonel. Served in Naglee's brigade, Army of the Potomac, until January, 1862 when the brigade was sent to join the land forces intended to co-operate with the naval attack upon Fort Sumpter under Admiral Dupoint. He was engaged in the siege of Morris Island under General Gilmore, and was captured in a night attack in small boats across Charleston Harbor on Fort Johnson. Upon his exchange he rejoined his command, and at the close of the war was mustered out with the rank of brevet brigadier general. In 1867 he held the office of additional law judge of the courts of Luzerne county, under appointment of Governor Geary. He was elected governor in November, 1878, and was inaugurated in January, 1879. At the close of his official term he resumed the practice of law in Philadelphia, but subsequently removed to his old home in Wilkesbarre, where he died.

WINTER EXCURSION BOOK OF THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

A very valuable book for those contemplating either an extended winter trip or a short visit to the sunny South has just been issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Many useful suggestions and informations are contained in the little volume, which is copiously illustrated and provided with a valuable map of all the territory under consideration. Copies may be obtained at the ticket offices of the Company, or upon application to Geo. W. Boyd. Assistant General Passenger Agent, 233 South Fourth Street, Philadelphia.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder.—E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since.—J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Cond.

"Tales from Town Topics," No. 6, increased in size and containing an original novelette entitled "The Sale of a Soul," has made its appearance. The long story is interesting, and the selected matter the best the New York society journal has printed in past years.—TOWN TOPICS, 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

SAINT JACOBS OIL TRY IT

RHEUMATISM.

Mr. Willet F. Cook, Canajoharie, N. Y., writes: "Awoke one morning with excruciating pains in my shoulder. Tried various reliefs for sudden pains without effect; went to my office; the pain became insufferable; went home at 11 o'clock and used ST. JACOBS OIL; effect magical, pain ceased, and at 1 o'clock went to work; cure permanent."

NEURALGIA.

My wife suffered with such intense neuralgic pains in the face, she thought she would die. She bathed her face and head with ST. JACOBS OIL, and it cured her in four hours.

CARL SCHEIBE.

It Tastes Good

One reason why Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda has had such a large sale is because it is "Almost as palatable as milk;" but the best reason is that its curative properties are unequalled. It cures the cough, supplies the waste of tissues, produces flesh and builds up the entire system.

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula, and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S BAZAR is a journal for the home. It gives the fullest and latest information about Fashions, and its numerous illustrations, Paris designs, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared to make its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its bright stories, amusing comedies, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. The serials for 1893 will be written by Walter Besant and Edna Lyall. Christine Terhune Perrick will furnish a practical series, entitled "At the Toilet." Grace King, Olive Thorne Miller, and Candace Wheeler will be frequent contributors. The work of women in the Columbian Exposition will be fully represented with many illustrations. W. T. Higginson, in 'Women and Men,' will please a cultivated audience.

THE DAVIS!

What is The Davis? The best Sewing Machine on earth.

It is the only vertical feed sewing machine ever made.

It sews through thick and thin, without any change of feed; which is the only feed, which will move one thickness or a dozen thicknesses of the same goods and sew the same without making any change.

It has all the attachments. It is light running. It is very durable and we guarantee it to be a long lived machine.

It is a beautiful piece of furniture and an ornament in any household.

Reader, if you want to make your wife happy, present her with a Davis Sewing Machine.

Young man, if you want to make a present to your sister or to some other young man's sister, a Davis Sewing Machine will make your attachment doubly strong and make you twice as happy.

We challenge any other sewing machines to meet the Davis in a contest, as to the real merits of each, and will be glad to make a public exhibition in practical and fancy sewing. If three or more machines will accept this challenge, we will furnish the room free of charge, including light and heat for that purpose.

We invite all persons interested in the best Sewing machines to call at our store and examine the Davis; when we will take great pleasure in exhibiting the machine and explaining its merits.

A cordial invitation to attend these meetings is extended to all.

Sewing school every Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4; also held at room 20. To this school children are earnestly invited.

The exchange is open every Saturday at 3 P. M. in the room formerly occupied by Mr. McManus as a law office. A good variety of break, pies, puddings, cake and candy always on hand. Orders for Sunday dinner deserts promptly filled.

Enter not into the path of the wicked and go not in the way of evil men.–Prov. 4—17.

For they eat the bread of wickedness and drink the wine of violence.–Prov.--4—17.

Mrs. Anna M. Hammer, the newly elected State president of the W. C. T. U., will hold a parlor meeting in the W. C. T. U, rooms, Saturday afternoon from two to four o'clock. All ladies old and young are most cordially invited to meet her.

THE HOPE THAT IS WITHIN US.

We do not know that the honest hand of toil shall yet grasp the helm of state—but we believe it. We do not know that prohibition shall yet prevail across the continent and be salted down by the salt seas' boundaries—but we believe it. We do not know that woman will bless and brighten every place she enters, and that she shall yet enter every place—but we believe it. The Bible is the chief cornerstone of these beliefs.

The labor movement can find no better motto than this from Christ's own lips, "My Father worketh hitherto and I work."

The temperance movement can find no better motto than His who said. "Every plant that my Heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up."

The woman movement can find no better motto than that of the great apostle who said; "There is neither male nor female, but ye are all one in Christ Jesus."

True, there must always be the day of small things before we reach the day of great. In our more modern days associated effort has come to the rescue in a fashion that mightily accelerates the progress of reform. What if Dorothea Dix had given her life to the individual care of a few of the insane poor instead of going before legislatures and founding insane hospitals throughout the Union? What if Clara Barton had nursed a few soldiers instead of founding the Red Cross Army that can minister to a whole nation in time of need? What if Lord Shaftesbury had tended the individual chimney-sweep or relieved the sorrows of sundry little ones ground down under the slavery of the coal pits instead of instituting laws that swept the curse of child labor out of England at one stroke? What if Charles Sumner had uplifted individual colored men instead of so utilizing the machinery of the state as to lift up a race?

But these are splendid illustrations of the genius of one. This day of a new inspiration shows us how to apply the genius of the many focalized into systematic blessedness through organization. I thank God that by its means the workingman, the home and universal womanhood are soon to find a protection as universal as their need.

Emerson says, looking at the stately cathedral in Rome, "And yet a little waving hand reared these huge columns." Yes, but that hand wrought with ten thousand others on one plan and to one purpose. Alone we can do little. Aggregated we, the units of weakness, become batteries of power. It was once the fashion in certain circles political to speak sneeringly of "mudsills" and of "the men with hayseeds in their hair." Now the mud opens to receive into silence and oblivion those who dared thus speak of men, and the hayseed harvest waves like Lebanon. Agitate, educate, organize, these are the deathless watchwords of success. The fingers of the hand can do little alone, but correlated into a fist they become formidable. The plank borne here and there by the sport of the waves is an image of imbecility, but frame a thousand planks of heart of oak into a hull, put in your engine with its heart of fire, fit out your ship, and it shall cross at a right angle those same waves to the port it has purposed to attain. We want all those like-minded with us, who would down the saloon, exalt the home, redeem manhood and uplift womanhood, to join hands with us for organized work according to a plan.

It is the way commerce has marched across this continent and captured it for civilization—one by one; it is the way an army is recruited, one by one; it is the way Christ's church is built up into power and heaven adds to its souls redeemed, just one by one.

Readers, one and all, will you not rally thus to the holy call of individual responsibility and gloriously united effort?

"For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrong that needs resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that you can do!"

HOW SICK FOLKS GET WELL.

No one needs wine, beer, brandy, and gin as a medicine. We can get better without it. Consider these facts—for they are facts.

THE VIRTUE OF MILK AND BEEF TEA.

A young lad was knocked down by a van in a London street, and taken to a large hospital. One morning the doctor examined him, and said—

"Nurse, give him two glasses of port wine daily;" and, looking kindly at the lad, he said, "You will get on very well, my boy?"

The young patient looked up, and replied—

"Please, sir, don't order me the wine."

"Why not, my boy?"

"If you please sir, I belong to a Band of Hope."

"Oh! answered he, "do you? Well Nurse, give him a pint of new milk in the morning, and as much beef tea as he likes;" and, laughing cheerily, he said to the boy, "You will get on very well, my lad." And he got quite well without the wine.

TAKE WINE OR DIE.

An editor of some very popular works, and a man of immense energy; felt, as he expressed it, "below par," and went two hundred miles to see his family physician.

"My good friend," said the doctor, "you must take two glasses of wine a day, or you will die." Yes, he would die. Nothing but wine would save him. He must take that or die. Resolved to have another medical opinion, Mr. S. returned to the Metropolis, and went to consult Sir James Clark.

"Sir," said the eminent man what are your habits?"

"I am a teetotaller, Sir James."

"Then, sir, you will get better all the sooner!"

So he did not drink wine, and he is not dead yet. He has done noble service for God and man for many years since his family doctor predicted his certain and speedy death. The fact is, alcoholic prescriptions often hasten death instead of preventing it, and many people have died through "drops of brandy" who would have lived had they resorted to beef tea, milk, oatmeal porridge, fresh air, cold water, and plenty of rest. Drugs and brandy are poor substitutes for the natural remedies, and the more simple our diet and medicines are the better.

COURAGE.

FANNIE BOLTON.

"God help us! who's ready?" There's danger ahead,
Who is able to stand? Hear the enemy's tread.
Hear the laugh of the demon all over the land
As they fall, our beloved, for the glass in his hand;
And northward and southward and eastward and west,
His legions are tramping to capture our best
Strong heroes are arming, strong hearts are at prayer.
The light and the darkness are wrestling in air;
But shall the night stay when the sun climbs the sky?
And shall the right fall then, to see the wrong die?
Take courage ye faithless, ye sorrowing rise,
We shall bring back our loved when our enemy dies.
"Be ready! All forward!" undaunted we cry
"For God, home and freedom we'll fight till we die."
"The rum-holes shall turn out their stench and their sin.
"And sunshine and liberty sweetly flow in
"Our hands shall be strong, the weak ones to grasp.
"Our hands shall be tender, the sad ones to clasp.
"The God of our fathers is guiding us still
"Men, women, all forward and conquer we will!"

A VALUABLE GIFT.

Probably no physician of our day has gained such a reputation for curing cases of lingering or long standing diseases through treatment by mail as the great Specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th Street, New York, discoverer of the well known Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. He uses in his practice only harmless vegetable remedies, and has given special attention to treatment of patients at a distance through letter correspondence. Consultation in this manner or personally, is entirely free of charge. Any sufferer from whatever kind of disease has the privilege of writing to him a description of his or her case, and he will return a carefully considered answer fully explaining your disease and giving you a perfect understanding of all its symptoms, free of charge.

His success is something wonderful in restoring the sick to health, and his practice is without doubt the largest in this country. Send for his symptom blank and write him, sufferer, for his advice in your case. This will cost you nothing, and may lead to your cure.

The Christmas number of Harper's Young People will be published December 6th. It will contain illustrated Christmas stories by William Drysdale, Harriet Prescott Spofford, and John Kendrick Bangs; a Christmas patomime in one act, entitled "Dresden China," by Ellen Douglas Deland; a Christmas poem, "A Song of Kriss Kringle's Tree," by Margaret E. Sangster; a practical article, with illustrations, on Christmas presents, entitled "A Visit to Santa Claus's Warehouse," by Margaret Fezandie; and a full-page illustration, "Christmas Morning," by Otto Beck. There will also be a number of short articles on a variety of subjects, and the continuation of Kirk Munroe's interesting serial, "Raftmates," beside the usual supplement and a beautiful cover specially designed for this issue.

The January St. Nicholas will contain the opening paper in a series that magazine is to print on leading American cities, illustrated. In this article Colonel T. W. Higginson describes Boston in a way to interest boys and girls in the literary history of that city. For future number of St. Nicholas, Dr. Lyman Abbott will write of Brooklyn, Edmund Clarence Stadman will describe New York, and other famous residents of the different cities will describe them.

"The Potted Princess" is the title of Rudyard Kipling's East Indian fairy story which will appear in the January St. Nicholas with Birch's illustrations.

THE MOTHER'S NURSERY GUIDE.

The December number of THE MOTHER'S NURSERY GUIDE contains a valuable article on catarrhal affections, by Dr. G. C. Stout which points out the necessity of attending to these troubles at their earliest appearance in infancy. A talk on milk, by Dr. Graham Lusk, shows in what manner the natural food of children is superior to artificial, and Dr. S. A. Kime writes on certain fallacies concerning the use of eyeglasses, many parents erroneously withholding from their children the aid which well selected glasses give to defective eyes. The interesting "Personal Experiences in Home Training" are continued, holiday books for children are discussed, and there are a number of "Kindergarten-at-Home Stories." The mothers themselves contribute entertaining letters to the "Parliament," and Dr. L. M. Yale, the medical editor, gives advice concerning "Sudden Weaning," "Variety in food," "Contamination of Well Water," and many other nursery problems. The present number begins the ninth volume of this indispensable mother's guide. $2 a year. Sample copies sent free. Address, BABYHOOD PUBLISHING CO., 5 Beekman Street, New York.

The Christmas number of Harper's Weekly, published December 7th, will present an extraordinary combination of literary and artistic features. It will contain, among many other attractions, a beautiful double-page Christmas picture drawn by Howard Pyle; four pages of illustrations of "The New West Point," with descriptive comment by George I. Putnam; and two pages of characteristic illustrations by A. B. Frost. There will also be a delightful story by John Kendrick Bangs, and an article on "London Music Halls" by Richard Harding Davis, with appropriate illustrations. A variety of short articles on timely topics, thoughtful editorials on the questions of the day, poems, sketches etc., will help to complete this noteworthy and very interesting number.

Harper's Bazar for December 10th will be an elegant Christmas number, superbly illustrated, and containing many attractive holiday features. Among other Christmas stories, it will include "The Witch's Strong-Box," by Eva Wilder McGlasson, and "Deam Aldewater's Baby," by Florence Watters Snedeker; there will also be a Christmas poem by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mrs. John Sherwood will contribute a specially prepared article on "Afternoon Tea," giving full details of the etiquette of that social function. The illustrations will be numerous and particularly attractive.

The Holiday edition of "Tales from Town Topics," which is No. 6 of the series shows an increase in size and contains, in addition to the collection of stories, poems and witticisms culled from the well-known journal itself, an original novelette, seventy-five pages in length, entitled "The Sale of a Soul." The novelette is by C. M. S. McLellan, and it relates a story of metropolitan life in which a beautiful girl is raised from a Bowery saloon to the highest place in New York and London society. In its characters and local color "The Sale of a Soul" is highly entertaining, while the literary Melange gathered from TOWN TOPICS is of the usual bright and graceful description.—TOWN TOPICS, 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

—Allie Maitland, a sixteen year old son of W. B. Maitland, the proprietor of the Bellefonte Boiler Works, who must have gathered his practical knowledge of merchanical work at his father's manufactory, has invented a hoisting pully which it is thought by practical persons who have seen it will take the place of the block and tackle now in use, as it is more effective and much easier put in position. A patent has been applied for. We hope young Maitland may find his invention a profitable one and that genius my find its great reward.

JUST WHAT IS WANTED.

Business is alive to a great coming event, and preparations of all sorts for the Columbian Exposition in 1893 are active and earnest. Just what is wanted of a unique kind, has happily already made its appearance, and we have before us "THE OFFICIAL PORTFOLIO OF THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION," illustrated from Water Color Drawings.

This Portfolio is a rare beautiful exponent of the main architectural features of the Great Exposition at Chicago in 1893. The fourteen magnificent structures are faithfully exhibited, while the Bird's eye View gives a realistic glance at the lay of the grounds, with their principal buildings, lagoons, etc. The illustrations are exact reproductions, in water color effects, of the original drawings, made especially for this purpose from the official plans, by America's best known water color artist, Charles Graham.

A copy of this exceptionally fine production, will be sent to any address upon receipt of 10 cents in postage stymps, by The Charles A. Vogeler Co., Baltimore, Md.

A CENTRE COUNTIAN CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE IN CLINTON COUNTY.

J. M. Furey, formerly of Bellefonte, and a teacher in our public schools, is a candidate for county superintendent of schools in Clinton county. Mr. Furey is a democrat but not a very rabid one. He is also a subscriber to the Republican which no doubt accounts for his not being a bitter democrat he is however, a good man for the position. He is now aspiring to and if elected will make a good officer, The Democrat of Lock Haven has this to say about him:

J. Milton Furey, who has announced himself as candidate for county superintendent has had nine years of successful experience as a teacher. He graduated from the Normal school in this city in 1883, went to Montgomery county, where he taught for one term, afterwards removed to Centre county, where he took charge of the school at Pleasant Gap, the next year he assumed the management of the North ward schools, of Bellefonte, and remained there until the fall of 1888, when he removed to Lock Haven and became the principal of the Third ward school, in which position he served until the close of the spring term in 1890. He has appeared before various institutes and has been an active participant in the discussion of many questions before those gatherings. He is a man of family and pays both city and county taxes. His connection with the newspapers and his contract with the people of this county in gathering data for the History of Clinton county, of which book he is the author, has acquired for him an extensive acquaintance.

DEATH OF EX-GOVERNOR HENRY M. HOYT.

WILKESBARRE, December 1.—Ex Governor Henry M. Hoyt died at 2 o'clock this morning. He was surrounded by his family and a circle of sorrowing friends.

Henry Martyn Hoyt, son of Ziba Hoyt, was born in Kingston, Luzerne county, June 9th. 1830. He remained upon his father's farm until his seventeeth year, when, having finished his preparatory studies under the Rev Dr. Reuben Nelson he entered Lafayette college. He finished his academic course at Williams college, Mass., where he graduated in 1849; opened a high school at Towanda, Pa., and was a professor of mathematics at the Wyoming seminary in the Wyoming conference; read law with Chief Justice G. W. Woodward, and was admitted to the bar in 1853. At the outbreak of the civil war he was active in the raising of the Fifty-second regiment, P. V., and was appointed by Governor Curtin lieutenant colonel. Served in Naglee's brigade, Army of the Potomac, until January, 1862 when the brigade was sent to join the land forces intended to co-operate with the naval attack upon Fort Sumpter under Admiral Dupoint. He was engaged in the siege of Morris Island under General Gilmore, and was captured in a night attack in small boats across Charleston Harbor on Fort Johnson. Upon his exchange he rejoined his command, and at the close of the war was mustered out with the rank of brevet brigadier general. In 1867 he held the office of additional law judge of the courts of Luzerne county, under appointment of Governor Geary. He was elected governor in November, 1878, and was inaugurated in January, 1879. At the close of his official term he resumed the practice of law in Philadelphia, but subsequently removed to his old home in Wilkesbarre, where he died.

WINTER EXCURSION BOOK OF THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

A very valuable book for those contemplating either an extended winter trip or a short visit to the sunny South has just been issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Many useful suggestions and informations are contained in the little volume, which is copiously illustrated and provided with a valuable map of all the territory under consideration. Copies may be obtained at the ticket offices of the Company, or upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, 233 South Fourth Street, Philadelphia.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder.—E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since.—J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Cond.

"Tales from Town Topics," No. 6, increased in size and containing an original novelette entitled "The Sale of a Soul," has made its appearance. The long story is interesting, and the selected matter the best the New York society journal has printed in past years.—TOWN TOPICS, 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

THE DAVIS! ○○○○○ ○○○○○

○○○○○ THE DAVIS!

What is The Davis? The best Sewing Machine on earth.

It is the only vertical feed sewing machine ever made.

It sews through thick and thin, without any change of feed; which is the only feed, which will move one thickness or a dozen thicknesses of the same goods and sew the same without making any change.

It has all the attachments. It is light running. It is very durable and we guarantee it to be a long lived machine.

It is a beautiful piece of furuiture and an ornament in any household.

Reader, if you want to make your wife happy, present her with a Davis Sewing Machine.

Young man, if you want to make a present to your sister or to some other young man's sister, a Davis Sewing Machine will make your attachment doubly strong and make you twice as happy.

We challenge any other sewing machines to meet the Davis in a contest, as to the real merits of each, and will be glad to make a public exhibition in practical and fancy sewing. If three or more machines will accept this challenge, we will furnish the room free of charge, including light and heat for that purpose.

We invite all persons interested in the best Sewing machines to call at our store and examine the Davis; when we will take great pleasure in exhibiting the machine and explaining its merits.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, Dec. 2, 1892.

The President, and his family, returned tonight from the sad errand of burying his father-in-law, Rev. Dr. Scott, who died at the White House last Tuesday afternoon. The death of Dr. Scott put a stop to work on the President's annual message to Congress and it was at first feared that the delivery of the message, would have to be delayed a few days but with the aid of the members of the Cabinet it is now expected that the message, which will contain about 15,000 words, mostly devoted to a review of the excellent work of the administration, will be ready not later than next Tuesday,

From the talk of Senators and Representatives, many of whom are already here, it is apparent that the session of Congress which begins Monday is to be much more interesting than had been generally supposed. Some democrats are already expressing the fear that the republican Senate may take up and pass the "pop gun" tariff bills passed by the House at the last session, placing wool and other articles on the free list, which, if signed by the President, would make that Treasury deficit, which democratic success at the polls has made a strong probability for the next fiscal year an absolute certainty. The fears are, however, groundless; the republican Senators are too patriotic to vote against their honest convictions merely to add to the troubles, which already promise to be great enough, Heaven knows, of the democratic administration and Congress.

Impecunious Congressmen are rejoicing over the prospect of the presence of a big lobby in Washington during this session, to fight the bill which will be reported by the Senate Committee on Immigration, providing for a suspension of immigration for a period of one year from March 1, 1893. Should this bill become a law it would cause an immense loss to the trans-Atlantic steamship companies which derive a very large revenue from the immigration traffic, and it is these companies which are organizing this lobby, and which will supply it with all the money needed to "influence," votes against the bill.

Another lobby will also be here, indeed its advance agents are already here, but its work will be entirely with the Senate, which has very few impecunious members, consequently its presence does not excite so much interest. It is composed of representatives of the great grain and cotton exchanges, and is here for the purpose of preventing the passage of the anti-option bill, which passed the House last session, and which Washburn has given notice that he will call up in the Senate and push to a vote at the earliest opportunity.

A formidable number of democrats aided by the third party members are working up a sentiment in the House in favor of the passage of a bill providing for an income tax and they claim to have gotten almost enough pledges to secure its passage; but as Speaker Crisp dominates the House committee on Rules, and he is anxious to carry favor with Mr. Cleveland who is opposed to an income tax, and no bill opposed by that committee can be brought to a vote in the House, it is regarded as doubtful whether the bill can be passed by the House. It is certain that it would not pass the Senate.

If it be true, as stated here and generally believed, that Mr. Cleveland has selected ex-Secretary Fairchild, who took a prominent part in the New York "anti-snapper" movement, for his Secretary of the Treasury, it is not likely that the Tammany-Hill combine will get a member of the Cabinet, as it is not believed that New York will have more than one representative in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, owing to the number of other states already demanding recognition because they voted for Cleveland.

If the democrats who are clamoring for an early extra session of the Fifty-third Congress continue to gain recruits at the present rate Mr. Cleveland will find it difficult to refuse their demands, whatever he may think about it. Speaker Crisp, although he professes publicly to be undecided, is in reality working as hard as he knows how to bring about an extra session. It is pure unadulterated selfishness with him; he wants to be Speaker again, and having been a Hill man, he fears that if the election of Speaker be postponed until the regular session Mr. Cleveland will have an opportunity to make combinations that would result in the election of a Cleveland Speaker. The latest and most sordid argument yet advanced for an extra session is that the democrats could then admit New Mexico and Arizona to Statehood and have four more democratic Senators at the opening of the regular session, making them independent of the votes of the third party Senators.

THE CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM.

An acid which exists in sour milk and cider, called lactic acid, is believed by physicians to be the cause of rheumatism. Accumulating in the blood, it attacks the fibrous tissues in the joints, and causes agonizing pains. What is needed is a remedy to neutralize the acid, and to so invigorate the kidneys and liver that all waste will be carried off. Hood's Sarsaparilla is heartily recommended by many whom it has cured of rheumatism. It posesses just the desired qualities, and so thoroughly purifies the blood as to prevent occurrence of rheumatic attacks. We suggest a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla by all who suffer from rheumatism.

THE democracy will now proceed to show us how we are to get a big price for every thing we have to sell and recieve everything we buy cheap.

Not troubled with rheumatism any more,—Judge Gatewood, 84 Avery St., Cincinnati, Ohio, writes thus: "I bought a bottle of Salvation Oil for rheumatism, with which I was afflicted. The first application gave relief and I have not been troubled since."

PALESTINE AND THE JEWS.

There is a disposition among many Christian writers to ignore any possible future for the Jew, except such as involves his restoration to Palestine. This question has recently been discussed with great ability by learned Jews of all shades of religious belief. In the midst of the vast variety of views expressed we fail to find a single argument, from a Jewish source in this country, in favor of a general Hebrew migraton to Palestine.

Dr. Wise, one of our most conspicuous and celebrated Jewish thinkers and writers expresses himself very freely and fully on this subject. He does not look with approval upon the so-called new Palestinian movement. He shows that it is not a new movement, but that every nation prejudiced against the Jews has, with a great exhibition of Christian charity, urged the immediate repeopling of the Holy Land by the Jews scattered over the world. He also holds that the Jews now in the United States would make a great mistake to abandon this wonderful country and forfeit for themselves and their children the inestimably precious privileges and liberties guaranteed and enjoyed here, in order to gratify a sentiment or fulfill an altogether doubtful prophecy. The Jewish papers of this country take substantially the same view of the question. The Jewish Messenger of this city, in a recent issue, said:

"The utterance of Rev. Dr. Kelt, of the Episcopal Church, that 'Palestine will soon be ready for the Jewish race," has absolutely no weight unless he can show that the Jewish race is ready for Palestine. Jewish public opinion on this subject is not difficult to ascertain. The great majority of Israelites who share the civilization of the day and are accorded civil and religious equality, give no thought of returning to Palestine. If the traditional view of the final ingathering and the rebuilding of the Temple is still repeated in the prayers, it is held as a theory like that of the millennium among our Protestant brethren, who are in no hurry, however, to abandon Wall street, the Standard Oil Company and Western mortgages in consequence. So Israel is not returning, and does not want to return. It looks no longer backward, but ahead and around!"

On the other side Baron Rothchild has been laboring for years to create a condition in Palestine calculated to induce Jewish migration and settlement. He is influenced by the religious side of the subject and is also evidently impressed with the vast material possibilities offered by the Holy Land, and seems to share with Napoleon the belief that Jerusalem will one day be the capital of the world.

To this end imposing plans of improvement have been projected and are in process of accomplishment. One railroad is already about completed connecting Jerusalem directly with the Mediterranean coast. Branch lines are also projected which will, when constructed, thread all the principal cities and towns of Palestine with the thrilling and vital nerve of trade. All these remarkable occurrences not only encourage the idea of Jewish colonization, but would seem to be the immediate effects of a gigantic scheme in that direction. Hundreds of new buildings, including residences, shops, hotels and hospitals, have been erected.

The only rational purpose for this extensive outlay and activity is to be found in Baron Rothchild's plan of Jewish colonization. He has recently purchased a large tract of land comprising some thousands of acres east of the River Jordan and near the Damascus Railway, and during the coming year he will send more than a thousand families to this tract.

Whatever may be the present or future feeling of our Jewish brethren on this subject of Palestinian colonization, we shall not force upon them this project simply to satisfy a sentiment.

The adaptation of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup to the cure of all diseases of the throat and chest is certainly marvelous. For cold, cough, croup, whooping-cough and incipient consumption it is incomparably the best preparation made.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

During the week, we have had the first clear indication of what the Brussels Conference is likely to prove willing to do towards settling the silver problem. Mr. Alfred de Rothschild's proposals that, for each of the next five years, the European Governments shall collectively buy £5.-000,000 worth of silver at a maximum price of 43 pence per ounce and that the United States shall for the same period continue to buy 54,000,000 ounces, may perhaps be taken as a test, but probably not the full measuse of what Europe is at present disposed to do. I take it that the United States will not be found willing to bestow any serious consideration on this simple proposal, without material amendments. On its face, the scheme is an attempt to saddle the United States with the responsibility of taking, for the next five years, twice as much silver for monetary use as all Europe combined; and not only this; it also means that, after having thus added 270,000,000 ounces to our stock of silver and in a much larger measure increased the legal tender notes payable in gold or silver, there will be the same absence of any concerted protection for silver as there is at this moment, whilst its depreciation will then be subject to a new impetus. If Mr. de Rothschild insists upon standing on his very limited proposition, he could not have undertaken to devise for this country a method of deliberate financial suicide, which would at the same time afford Europe an opportunity of becoming the successors to our large stock of gold, he could not have suggested a plan more certain of sure refusals. All such petty expedients are but a mockery of the large and serious demands arising out of the present position of silver. The foreign powers cannot be too soon given to understand that the United States sue for no favors in this matter. They regard themselves as being, in common with all the great nations, exposed to serious dangers from the depreciation of silver; and they are willing to take their just quota of responsibility in any common feasible effort to restore the metal to a staple status; but beyond that limit of commitment they will decline to go; and if, for fifteen years, they have ventured to fight the decline of silver single-handed, theyr egard that rather asa reason why they should in future be expected to do less to arrest the depreciation than as affording a ground for making increased demands upon them. It looks very much as though the result of the Conference might be to leave us no alternative but to immediately suspend all Government purchases of silver and put in force such means as lie within our power to accumulate gold in order the better to maintain the value of the silver money we already have. That being done, we shall be safe; and Europe may then be disposed to undertake the radical and only sure method of dealing with the question which they now are maneuvering to evade.

The effort of the Silver Conference upon values is somewhat unsettling, because it arouses public attention to dangers which have long been realized by only comparatively few. In reality, this agitation should tend to restore confidence; for once the dangers are fairly realized, the remedy will be the sooner applied. As the movement for stoppage of Government purchases of silver is likely to be led by Senator Sherman himself, the outlook in this direction is the more encouraging. At the moment Wall Street is more disturbed over the prospect of gold exports than any other single influence. Foreign exchange remains firm, owing to the relative scarcity of grain and cotton bills; and, as Europe still refuses to buy our stocks and bonds, there is also an absence of security bills. Meanwhile money rules easy, owing to the enormous expansion of our silver currency; consequently Europe finds it easier to draw upon us for gold. While there is no occasion for immediate alarm over gold exports, exceptional as they are at this season, still it is impossible to restore confidence under such conditions. Another factor of uncertainty is the early opening of Congress with all its attendant agitations. Business men have an unusually unsettled period in prospect, and with all sorts of tariff changes and discussions to be met, they are likely to remain in a very conservative mood. Then, too, railroad earnings are not so satisfactory as a few months ago, and this deprives the market of the support it had from that means. The only supporting features are the generally sound condition of mercantile, industrial and railroad affairs, and the fact that unusually large amounts for dividends will be distributed next month, which ought to develop a good investment demand for desirable stocks and bonds. Speculation in the industrials has been active, but operations in these have been largely of an artificial character, and railroad securities were influenced but slightly by their movements. Concerning the future we can only renew our advice of caution; buying on the breaks and selling upon all good rallies.

APPLY THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Congressman Amos Cummings is disturbed over the foreign influences that are trying to steal away the trade of the United States and debilitate its merchant marine. As a member of the Naval Committee of the House, Mr. Cummings has had an opportunity to find out more about our shipping and about the influences that are brought to bear against it than most men. Now he sounds a note of warning that this nation is really surrounded by a hostile cordon.

On the north there is the subsidized Canadian Pacific Railway, reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with a fleet of subsidized steamers connecting with it for the ports across th e Pacific Ocean. On the east are the subsidized steamers of a score of foreign companies. On the south the Panama railway, which was built by American capital and genius, has passed into the hands of French owners, who now discriminate against American lines in the transport of goods across the isthmus. On the west there are other subsidized lines of steamers.

Against all this competition the few American lines that keep alive at all do so by means of subsidies, not from this government, which ought to help sustain them, but from the governments of Mexico, Hawah and the West Indian islands. It is high time, thinks Mr. Cummings, for an application of the Monroe doctrine. It is time to pursue a liberal policy with our merchant marine; time to complete the Nicaragua Canal as soon as possible and keep it under our control; time to meet subsidy with subsidy, if that be necessary, as it most assuredly is.

There would be a great deal more hope for the consummation so devoutly to be wished if the next Congress were to have a majority of Republicans. Mr. Cummings knows from experience how hard it is for his fellow democrats to rise to an emergency like this. He knows how hard he fought against the cheese-paring tendencies of Holman and the rest in the present Congress, and how he and Bourke Cockran and two or thr e others were the only democrats who knew enough or had courage enough to speak and to vote for respectable appropriations for the navy.

If Messrs. Cummings and Cockran could only convert a majority of their democratic colleagues, and the incoming President besides, to a belief in the necessity of a large-minded, national, liberal policy, no one could rejoice more heartily than the MAIL AND EXPRESS and the whole Republican party. At present, however, we cannot expect anything of the sort from either Mr. Cleveland or the Fifty-third Congress.

JAY GOULD DEAD.

The World Famous Financier a Victim of Consumption.

HE KNEW HE WAS DYING.

His Last Request Was to Have His Family at His Deathbed.

The End Was Peaceful, and the Touch of the Grim Destroyer Was Gentle and Painless—It Is Said That Mr. Gould Never Recovered from the Shock of His Wife's Death—The Funeral Will Take Place on Monday from the Fifth Avenue Mansion — The History of One of the Greatest Figures Wall Street Ever Knew, a Man Who Rose from Poverty and Obscurity to Wealth and Fame.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Jay Gould, the famous financier, died Friday morning at 9:15 o'clock in the same bedroom in his Fifth avenue mansion in which his wife breathed her last. Mr. Gould died surrounded by the members of his family and faithful physicians.

All day Thursday contradictory reports regarding Mr. Gould's condition were circulated, but late at night it was admitted that the end was near. However, at 1 o'clock Friday morning he seemed to rally somewhat, and the lights were turned down, and the family retired to try to get some rest. Dr. Munn and the nurses remained with the patient.

At daylight Mr. Gould's condition became more alarming, and gradually the members of his family again assembled at his bedside. It was apparent to all that the end was fast approaching. Mr. Gould seemed to realize the truth himself. No pain attended the last moments of the dying man. The end came peacefully and quietly.

Just before he died Mr. Gould, realizing that he had but a little while longer to live, expressed a desire that all the members of his family be called that he might look upon them for the last time. He was perfectly conscious and entirely composed, meeting the end with calmness. His mind was clear to the last, as was demonstrated by the fact that he missed the face of a member of the family who had left the room for a moment.

Mr. Gould's last words were in the form of a request that he might at the closing moments of his life be surrounded by the beloved members of his family. His death is said to have been caused by pulmonary consumption.

The members of the family assembled at the bedside of Mr. Gould when death laid its hand upon him included Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould, Miss Helen Gould, Mr. Howard Gould and Miss Annie Gould.

The servants were assembled near by, and were informed of the death of their master immediately after its occurrence.

Mr. Gould, it is said, never rallied from the shock of his wife's death.

Mr. Gould's funeral will take place on Monday either at 10 in the morning or 4 in the afternoon. It has not been decided which. The Revs. Dr. Paxton and Turner, with Chaplain McCracken, of the New York university, will conduct the funeral services.

The services will be very simple and unostentatious, in accordance with the wish expressed by the deceased. The services will be held in the family mansion. The interment will be at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, where the body of Mrs. Gould reposes.

The Gould family are prostrated with grief. Miss Helen Gould was ill when her father was taken sick, and the blow has come upon her with terrible force. The members of the family are very much devoted to each other.

The physicians have not yet stated definitely what was the nature of Mr. Gould's recent illness, but it is generally believed it was pulmonary consumption. It is said that Mr. Gould had several hemorrhages of the lungs recently, the first having been the day before Thanksgiving, and another a few days later, and still another a few days ago.

Whether or not the pulmonary disease made its appearance recently is not known positively, but it is said that his family have long been aware of the fact that Mr. Gould was a victim to the disease. Mr. Gould bore his suffering bravely and was grateful for all that was done for him.

Gould's Immense Fortune.

No two estimates agree as to the amount of Mr. Gould's fortune. The most conservative figures place it at about $60,000,000, while some people in Wall street, who think they know something about his accumulations, figure that he must have gotten together fully $100,000,000. His known holdings of securities are about as follows: Twenty-two millions (par value) of Western Union telegraph, which at present prices would fetch about $18,700,000; $10,000,000 (par value) of Missouri Pacific, which is now worth in the market $5,500,000.

He is supposed to hold in the neighborhood of $8,000,000—probably more—of Manhattan railway stock, worth $10,400,000. His holdings of all these stocks have been larger than this, but he sold them to either invest the money in new issues of bonds of the Missouri Pacific and Manhattan companies or to finance those companies until bonds could be issued. Excellent information is that he holds about one-third of the bonds issued on the Missouri Pacific system, which would be about $30,000,000.

His estate holds over $12,000,000 of Wabash railway stock, which shows a loss of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. As long ago as 1884 Mr. Gould was known to hold about $3,000,000 of first class railway mortgage bonds upon roads other than those controlled or managed by him. Besides these items he had large investments in a great number of properties concerning which the general public knows little or nothing. His holdings of Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific bonds, which have never been stated, must be large, but it is not believed that he owned of late years much, if any, Union Pacific stock.

From the foregoing figures, which are approximately correct, it is easy to figure up in the neighborhood of $75,000,000. Of late years his fortune has increased rapidly, owing to his enormous income from his holdings of Western Union and Manhattan stock, to say nothing of his investments in bonds. His income from these three sources alone cannot have fallen under $3,000,000 a year, and has probably exceeded that amount.

His Early Life.

Jay Gould, who rose from obscurity and poverty to wealth and worldwide fame, was born at Roxbury, in Delaware county, N. Y., May 27, 1836. His father, John B. Gould, was a farmer and later a store keeper. The little wooden cottage in which Gould was born still stands and is one of the show places of the county. He was educated at the village school, which was dignified by the title of Beechwood seminary. When he was sixteen years old he finished the scholastic part of his education, and there is in existence now a composition dated April 9, 1850, and signed "Jason Gould," which, it appears, was at that time his name, upon the subject of "Honesty." The morality of this youthful effort is unimpeachable, the language not very ungrammatical and the argument, though trite, entirely conclusive.

Having left the Beechwood seminary Gould entered his father's store as clerk and general utility man. After a short stay with his father he entered the employment of Squire Burnham, who kept a cross-roads store some two miles away from the elder Gould's establishment. At this place he taught himself bookkeeping, and also studied land surveying. While he was in Burnham's employ some men arranged to make a survey of Delaware and the adjoining counties and publish maps to sell to the farmers. Gould entered into the service of this firm and assisted in the surveys.

Young Gould's neatness and accuracy in this work attracted the attention of John Delafield, who obtained from the legislature a grant for a topographical survey of the state and engaged Jay to assist him, but died before much was done. Young Gould then undertook the work alone, completed the survey and mapping of Albany and Delaware counties, and also did some profitable work in directing parties which surveyed Lake and Geauga counties, O., and Oakland county, Mich. From these surveys and the sale of maps and other sources he had accumulated about $5,000, and this two or three years before reaching his majority. In 1856 he published his "History of Delaware County."

About this time Zadoch Pratt, of Greene county, N. Y., invited Gould to join him in establishing a tannery in Luzerne county, Pa. This invitation was accepted, and the tannery was built and put in operation by the firm of Pratt & Gould. The partners did not long agree, and Gould borrowed the money to buy Pratt out. While in this business Gould often went to New York to sell the product of his tannery, and this rather disposes of the pretty story which has been current for many years that his first appearance in New York was to endeavor to sell a mousetrap of his own invention.

Gould's First Railroad Venture.

Mr. Gould sold out the entire tannery and his right to the hemlock growths of the vicinity soon after reaching the age of twenty-one, and just in the nick of time, too, for in a few weeks came the panic of 1857. Even thus early he had developed his maxim that the time to buy is just after a crushing panic, and with that principle fixed in his mind he sought the great metropolis with all his means in ready cash. In his business visits to New York Mr. Gould had made the acquaintance of a well to do leather merchant named Miller. Now, when he came to the city to make it his home this merchant took him into his family as a boarder. There was a daughter—Miss Helen Day Miller—and between her and Gould an affection sprang up which resulted in marriage when Gould was about of age.

His father-in-law, Mr. Miller, had shares in a railroad from Rutland in Vermont to some other point. The shares paid no dividends, and he asked his young son-in-law to look into the matter and sell the shares. Gould did look into the matter, but he did not sell the shares; instead of that he bought all he could, as well as the bonds, all at ten cents on the dollar. He now went into the directory of the road and became the president. The stock and bonds both advanced in price, and out of this venture he made a fortune. Speaking of this thirty years later, when he was a witness before the Pacific railway commission, Mr. Gould said: "I have been all my life dealing in railroads—that is, since I was of age—and always in futures. I have made my money in futures. The first railbond bonds I ever had I bought at ten cents—Rutland and Washington—and not only my bonds became good, but I sold my stock out at $1.25."

Though so young, he was now a successful man, and soon started business as a broker in New York on his own account.

trolled the affairs of the firm of Smith, Gould & Martin.

Mr. Gould has never been a speculator in stocks in the sense in which that term is usually understood. He has, however, unquestionably often astonished the boldest operators by his action in this way. Nearly always such operations have been subsidiary to some large campaign he was carrying out.

Spread His Wealth Before Them.

Upon one occasion, when his adversaries seemed to be getting the better of him in every move, they boasted that they were masters, and that the great man was tottering previous to his fall. It became apparent to Mr. Gould that these men were being believed not only by the public, but by the bankers too. He calmly ordered his general man of all work, Morosini, to go to this safety deposit vault and bring his securities. Before dispatching Morosini he invited the Wall street reporters and half a dozen bankers to come and see for themselves whether he "had gone broke." Morosini, a gigantic Italian who fought with Garibaldi, had to make several trips before he could fetch all the wealth. At last it was all there and spread out for inspection. There were $53,000,000 worth of stocks and bonds in face value, and they were of that character which money lenders call gilt edged. He had in addition $20,000,000 worth of lower grade stocks.

Mr. Gould confessed that he had been a borrower, but the banks held collaterals for all his loans. This move surprised his opponents. It was so foreign from anything this secretive man had ever done before that they could not understand it. But none of them believed that Mr. Gould was bankrupt. This was about 1880. He must have had at least $70,000,000 then. His first venture in Rutland and Washington was exactly on the lines which he has pursued profitably for many years. His next essay in railroading, however, was on a larger scale, and it attracted to him the widest possible public attention. Ever since then he has been one of the most notable actors in American affairs.

It was in the capture and administration of the affairs of the Erie Railway company that we first see him in company with the picturesque Jim Fisk and Daniel Drew. It was in this affair that he fled to Jersey City with a printing press and rendered old Commodore Vanderbilt impotent, for all his millions. It was as an officer of this company that he participated in the speculations in gold which precipitated the great financial crisis known as "Black Friday." When Commodore Vanderbilt tried to get control of the stock of the company Fisk, Gould and Daniel Drew—the famous Erie triumvirate—calmly ordered more stock and bonds to be printed, and the supply was simply inexhaustible.

His favorite method was to buy two or three unprofitable properties at very low prices, unite them into one larger company and upon the consolidated property issue bonds and stock and offer it to the public. Mr. Gould started a company which began paralleling the lines between large cities of the Western Union and cutting rates. The profits of the big company were seriously impaired, and the stock declined in the market. Suddenly it was announced that Gould had acquired a controlling interest in Western Union. The two companies were consolidated, and Gould retained control.

He Was a Bitter Enemy.

It was while he controlled the Wabash system that some more timid associate while discussing an issue of bonds asked, "Don't you think you are issuing more bonds than the property will stand?"

"That may be," he replied, "but the American people are mighty fond of bonds."

Gould was a relentless enemy, and many men, among them James R. Keene, have reason to regret that Jay Gould's memory was so good as it was and his hatred so bitter. George Crouch, who is still in the street, and Jim Mills, who until 1882 was regarded as Jay Gould's first lieutenant, have good reason to remember the stony character of a man that knew and wanted to know no friends. Gould took them under his wing, and they were allowed to accumulate immense fortunes.

Gould heard that both of them were becoming independent in speech and action as well as in fortune. So long as they were modest and loyal he was willing to allow them to be recognized as his allies. When he imagined that they were appropriating unconditionally plumes that he had only allowed them to wear so long as they were well behaved, he promptly called a halt, and before either of them knew it they were stripped of their finery and were sent into the street again penniless—in a worse financial condition than the day they entered it.

When Gould heard that his ruse had resulted successfully, as he knew it was bound to, he quietly remarked: "Unruly children can only be taught to behave themselves by severe punishment. When will men learn to know their own ability and appreciate the fact that a valet is not as great as his master?"

When Jay Gould found the wheel of fortune fast locked and with himself on top he had built for himself one of the most wonderful steam yachts the world has ever seen. He announced that he would have nothing more to do with speculation or the acquiring of new properties, but would devote the rest of his time to taking care of what he already had and to regaining his health, which was somewhat impaired. His yacht was built, and he used it as a ferryboat between New York and Irvington, where for many years he had had a magnificent country seat. The condition of business affairs did not permit him to go far from the offices where he directed the affairs of his immense properties. Unquestionably, however, he did withdraw from any of that speculation which had sometimes occupied him.

Gould's Methods.

The firm of brokers—W. E. Connor & Co.—with which Mr. Gould had been associated as a special partner, and to which his son George and his man of all work, Morosini, belonged as active partners, was dissolved, and Jay Gould and his son retired. His offices were now removed to more spacious quarters in the Western Union building, and since then, except when one of his various properties has been attacked, Wall street has not known him as a speculator. Since 1881 or 1882 Gould has found enough to do to look after the vast properties which by this time he had acquired.

Whenever Mr. Gould acquired control of a property he always went actively into its management. He did not always take the presidency, but he always dictated who should be the directors and which directors should constitute the executive committee. These committees in Mr. Gould's companies have always been most important in the administration of affairs, as they have always had the full powers of any board of directors, and they have usually been composed of men very near to Mr. Gould and men whom he could summon together at a moment's notice. By this development he has made himself absolute master wherever he cared to be.

From 1882 to this time some of the men most honored in financial and commercial circles have sat in the boards of directors of companies controlled by Gould, and he has been in the directories of many of the richest and most conservative financial institutions in New York. In the employment of assistants he has worked on one invariable principle. He has employed men who were skilled in that branch where he needed the particular service each was qualified to give. It has therefore happened that he has kept about him to a great extent the same men, both in his railways and telegraph companies, for many years, and it is the general impression that he has asked nothing more than skill and fidelity from them, while rewarding each liberally in proportion as he thought was proper and deserved.

Gould's Home Life.

Mr. Jay Gould, from the time he married Helen Day Miller, more than thirty years ago, tried sincerely to keep his family affairs from public observation. His family has always been quiet, unobtrusive and home loving, and therefore there has been no good excuse to drag its affairs before the public sight. Mr. Gould's marriage was a love match, and the affectionate relations lasted till Mrs. Gould died in 1888.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Gould appeared ever to have had any social aspirations—that is, aspirations to move and shine in that society of rich people among whom the Astors and Vanderbilts are pre-eminent. For a score or more of years this domestic couple made their winter home at 579 Fifth avenue, a large and spacious house, being what is called by real estate dealers a house and a half. It was very plain in the interior until a few years ago, when Mr. Gould, while taking a trip to Europe, availed himself of the opportunity to have it done over from top to bottom.

The family occupied the country seat at Irvington each summer from the beginning of June till late in October. For the trip to and from it Mr. Gould used his fast steam yacht, the Atalanta.

The house at Irvington is large and commodious and was evidently built with every regard for summer time comfort and unpretending home life. The glory of the place is the greenhouses, of which there are seventeen. In these there is a wonderful collection of rare and beautiful plants. These may not be the finest in the country, but they are not far behind the best.

His eldest daughter, Miss Helen Miller Gould, has had charge of the house since the death of her mother.

The eldest son, George J. Gould, has been very well known in New York for several years. He was born about 1861. He has since 1883 been his father's business associate and most intimate friend. He married Miss Edith Kingdon, of Daly's theater. She has retired from the theater and is the mother of two sons. George Gould is as regular in his business habits as the poorest clerk in the smallest bank in the city.

The second son, Edwin Gould, has also gone into business and has been placed on several boards. He, too, is said to have great business capacity and to have more than once gathered in money from veteran traders in Wall street. The third son, Howard, and the second daughter, Annie, are still at school.

A new man can be made, out of one that's "used-up," bilious and dyspeptic. It's done by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It starts the torpid liver into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses, repairs, and strengthens the system, and restores health and vigor. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, and builds up flesh and strength. It's the only Blood and Liver Remedy that's guaranteed, in every case, to benefit or cure. If it doesn't do all that's claimed for it, the money is promptly refunded. But it keeps its promises—that's the reason it can be sold in this way.

"Discovery" strengthens Weak Lungs, and cures Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections. Don't be fooled into taking something else, said to be "just as good," that the dealer may make a larger profit. There's nothing at all like the "Discovery."

CHILDHOOD AND OLD AGE.

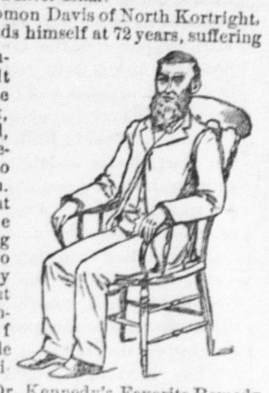
The Tender Grandchild and a Well-to-do Old Gentleman of 72, Acknowledge Obligations.

The preparation that can be taken with safety and benefit by the tender infant, and that nourishes, strengthens, and cures the aged and infirm, is one that can truly be called scientific. Such a preparation was discovered by Dr. David Kennedy and named Favorite Remedy. It is prescribed and recommended the world over, by the medical profession, as the best medicine produced for the cure of all diseases arising from an impure condition of the blood.

This beautiful child whose picture is shown here, is the grandchild of Mr. J. E. Palmateer of Athens, N. Y., who had been cured of gravel in the kidneys and insomonia, (sleeplessnes) finishes his letter by saying:

"But this is not all Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has done for our family. My little grand daughter had eczema the worst way; she was a mass of running sores from her ears around the entire neck to her cheeks. My wife gave her Favorite Remedy in small doses, and what was the result? To-day the sores have all disappeared, the skin is smooth and clear, and she is fat and rugged and as bright as a silver dollar.

Mr. Solomon Davis of North Kortright, N. Y., finds himself at 72 years, suffering from neuralgia, felt tired all the time, weak, languid, poor appetite, and no ambition. Thought at his age nothing could do him any good, but like hundreds of other people in his condition tried Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and began to get better at once, and now feels as hale and hearty as he ever did.



It is particularly pleasing when sickness is as common as now, to know that there is a remedy that cures disease, builds up the weak and debilitated, strengthens the nerves, and has restored to health and strength, men and women who have been confined to their homes for months on beds of sickness.

—Mrs. Frank Montgomery and son left Wednesday evening for Philadelphia to spend Christmas.

—New stone steps are being put at the entrance to property occupied by Mr. Page, on Alleghaney street, near the Gazette office.

—Phip Waddle, express messenger, is a witness in court this week, on an important case. Harry Gerbrick is filling his place at the office.

—On Sunday Mathias Riddle, of Pleasant Gap, was made happy when his wife presented him with a brand new baby boy. Mat says it is a dandy.

—Sechler & Co., the enterprising grocers in the Bush House Block, have placed two large arc lights in their store which makes it as light as day.

—The new organ for the Presbyterian church it is said will arrive sometime this week. All visitors will be excluded from the church while it is being set up.

—Post master Fiedler says in his paper that the Free mail Delivery has come to Bellefonte to stay, at least as long as the present national administration lasts.

—James C. Cain and family, have removed from Spring Mills, this county, to Bellwood, Blair county. He has obtained work there and will make that place his future home.

—Many school districts in Clearfield county are furnishing school books and material free to the scholars.Twenty districts have lengthened their school terms to exceed six months.

—Miss Cora Leathers, of Mt. Eagle, returned home from Philadelphia last week where she had been on an extended visit. She was called home on account of the death of her sister, Mrs. Bower.

—William Utz, the Bishop street, blacksmith, has moved his shop to a location near his residence on same street. As Mr. Utz is a good workmen his change of location will not effect his trade.

—The death of Charles Merriman at the home of his son, in Mt. Morris, Ill., has been announced. He was born in the Bald Eagle valley, this county, January 30, 1818, and was therefore 74 years of age.

—Dr. R. G. H. Hayes and family will move back into their residence on Spring street which was almost completely destroyed by fire a short time ago in about two weeks. The repairs are about completed.

—Mr. John Hoy, of near Lemont, killed two hogs a short time ago, only ten months old. One weighed when dressed 432 pounds and the other 438. John thinks he has made a success of hog raising this year.

—Miss Kate Lieb, sister of Prof. D. M. Lieb lately deceased, has had paid to her the amount of life insurance her brother had taken in her interest it was paid to her last Saturday evening. The amount was $5027.00.

—Col. Burchfield has appointed S. H. Willams Quartermaster and Henry C. Quigley Adjutant of the 5th regiment N. G. P. They took the oath of office last Tuesday morning, Col. Amos Mullen administered the obligation.

—Last Tuesday morning Thomas Donachy, who is employed by the Phœnix Plaining Mill Co., while at work in the yard had a pile of boards fall on him One of his legs was badly bruised. At first it was feared it was broken which upon examination was found not to be.

—We have often urged our friends to call at the Eureka Grocery, High St., Bellefonte, next door to Post office, and see how well they can do with a little money. We assure you that a little money goes a long way towards purchasing a large pile of goods at this place. Earle C. Tuten is in charge, assisted by one of the best and most gentlemanly clerks in this county, Mr. George Marshal. Call and see them you will not regret it.

—The Bellefonte Lutherans will occupy the vacant store rooms in Reynold's Block, on Allegheny street, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, of Institute week. Meals will be furnished at all hours. Turkey, oysters, ice cream, cake, coffee, etc., will be served, also many useful and beautiful articles will be offered for sale. Proceeds for benefit of new church fund. All friends are asked to be present and help the good cause along.

—On Sunday afternoon, Nov, 20, the funeral of Mrs. Martha Bowers, of Mt. Eagle, was held at her late residence. She was 34 years old and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Leathers. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. S. Blair, of Beech Creek. She leaves a husband and four children. A large number of relatives and friends attended the last sad rites to one who had been a faithful wife and mother, a kind and lady-like neighbor.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The verdict of the Jury in the case of William Charles, was not guilty but Charles to pay the cost.

At this point W. C. Heinle, Esq., arose and offered the following which will explain itself:

WHEREAS, This is the last regular term of court for the present incumbents in the offices of the Prothonatory and District Attorney to serve in said positions; and

WHEREAS, It is the sense of this bar that they would be direlict of an honest and agreeable duty if they failed to recognize the faithful services rendered to this bar as to the citizens of this county in their official duties.

Resolved, That in J. C. Meyer, Esq., the people of this county, irrespective of political parties, have had an honest, upright and capable official,and representative in the office of District Attorney—one whose sole object has been a prompt, effective and conscientious discharge of his duties, not having in view the emoluments attached to office, but having in view always the power of the Commonwealth to prosecute as well as to recognize the right of a citizen in defence of his liberty upon any accusation.

Resolved, That in L. A. Schaffer, Esq., the court, the bar and the people have had an industrious, a painstaking and capable official in the office of Prothonatory of the courts. The records in the office are in better condition than they have ever been —everything under the most complete system, making it comparatively easy for the attorneys and the people to examine and inspect the records; and that all his acts have been in a direction, giving the best public service to the people.

Resolved, That the court and the bar tender to these gentlemen their sincere thanks, for their fidelity to the court, as well as their courtesy to the bar in all their official acts.

Resolved, That a minute of these proceedings be made by the court.

He followed this with a speech in support of the resolutions as did also John G. Love and Charles P. Hewes. The retiring District Attorney responded. The President Judge also made a few remarks in support of the resolutions and also spoke feelingly of the Court crier Bartrum Galbraith, who was at that time lying at the point of death. The Court then resumed consideration of the case of E. A. Glenn & Co. Several witnesses were examined. Ellis Orvis spoke for the defence; Mr. Bower also addressed the jury for the defence. The Grand jury was dismissed at five o'clock. The court complimented them upon the faithful manner in which they had performed their duties and also alluded to the healthy tone of public morals when the Grand and Petit juries can be discharged in the middle of the first week of court. Mr. Wilbur F. Reeder then addressed the jury for the plaintiff in the case of E. A. Glenn & Co. against Wm Wolf.

As court was about to adjourn John G. Love, Esq., offered the following resolutions to be added to those considered in the early part of the afternoon:

Resolved, That in the retirement of Honorable Daniel Rhoads from the bench as one of the associate judges of the court, as the expiration of his term of office, the court, members of the bar and the people of the county part with an official who discharged the duties of his office with great impartiality, fairness, ability and becoming dignity, and with the highest and most unimpeachable integrity and we profoundly regret that severe illness prevents his being present in court during this the last regular term of court during his official term.

Resolved, That we express our most hearty sympathy with him in his present illness and affliction and sincerely sympathize with his family because of his serious illness, and earnestly hope he may be speedly restored to health, and again be able to resume his place amongst us as an active, honorable and public spirited citizen, such as his life heretofore amongst us has been.

THE COURT:

We direct a minute of the above resolution to be entered upon the records of court and a certified copy thereof be furnished to Judge Rhoads and his family.

A. O. FURST, P. J.

Court adjourned until 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Court charged the jury in the case of E. A. Glenn & Co. against William Wolf.

The Grand Jury makes their report as follows:

GRAND JURY REPORT.

The Grand Jury report as follows:

To the Honorable Judges of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Centre:

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in the county of Centre, in all matters relating to it, respectfully submit the following report:

First—We have acted on all the bills of indictment offered by the District Attorney and found eighteen true bills and ignored seven bills.

Second—We have inspected the jail and dwelling apartments of the Sheriff, and recommend the following: The Sheriff's office should be located in or near the Court House, thus avoiding the climbing of the hill by those who may have business with that official, and said office to be furnished with new and suitable furnifure. The board partitions between the cell for females and the hall in the jail should be overlaid with heavy sheet iron. The ceiling above the hall ought to be replastered; the bad odor arising from improper sewerage and endangering the health of the prisoners can and should be removed by putting the sewer pipes in jail cellar in proper condition. It is from a sanitary standpoint that we strongly urge this improvement. The cistern in the jail yard ought to be furnished with a suitable pump. The stone wall around the jail yard needs improvement as the rains wash out the plaster and thereby impair the wall, and thus afford a means of escape.

Third—The fence around the public grounds between the Court House and the jail is at places in a dilapidated condition and should be properly repaired.

Fourth, The stairway leading to the court room ought to be furnished with a few lights for the convenience and safety of the public and the matting on it should be replaced with new material.

Fifth, The ceiling in the District Attorney's office, as well as the ceiling in the arbitration room, needs repairing.

Sixth, Whereas the present accommodations for the Grand jury are wholly inadequate for the comfort and health of the members of said jury, we do strongly urge the necessity of building an annex to that part of the Court House so as to enlarge the psesent Grand Jury room, and also give suitable waiting room for witnesses who are to appear before said jury; this annex to be provided with a suitable water-closet for the convenience of grand jurors.

We herewith respectfully tender our thanks to the Honorable Judges, District Attorney, and other court officials for courtesies shows us.

W. M. ALLISON, Foreman.

Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 30th, 1892.

Clement Dale, Esq., petitioned to court for the appointment of viewers to lay out a public road in Union Twp.

James Nolan, of Philipsburg, was admitted to practice law in the courts of Centre county. He will open an office in the borough of Philipsburg.

Frank Ginger, of Milesburg, who was convicted of publishing a libel against John Zimmerman was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty five dollars and one month in county jail.

Lucien McLaughlin, who was found guilty of stealing a lamp from the rail road company at Milesburg, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar and remain in the county jail on month.

James H. Ranken, Esq., announced the death of the court crier and janitor, Bartram Galbraith. He said: He was appointed to that position 33 years ago by Judge Samuel Linn, then on the bench. There is no man in Bellefonte who lived a better or truer life; he has been industrious all his life. He moved that a committee be appointed to pass appropriate resolutions, and that the members of the bar and courts attend the funeral in a body. J. C. Meyer, Esq., seconded the motion and made a short speech with much feeling. Speeches were also made by Ellis Orvis, Wilbur F. Reeder, D. F. Fortney, James P. Coburn and Judge A. O. Furst. The following committee was appointed: James H. Rankin, Wilber F. Reeder, J. C. Meyer, James P. Coburn and D, F. Fortney.

The verdict of the jury in the case of E. A. Glenn & Co., against William Wolf was in favor of defendant. Adjourned to 2 o'clock P. M.

A FRAUD.

Last Saturday morning a young peddler of polish to brighten up silver and brass ware from Erie, Pa., called at the house of Wilbur F. Reeder, Esq., and when he found that Mrs. Reeder was not in told the servant that he had seen Mrs. Reeder, that she had directed him to leave six boxes of his wares and that the servant would pay him. The girl paid him when he went to the house of Robert Valentine and told a similar story and got his money When Mr. Reeder returned home found what had been done reported the case to the police and the boy was arrested. He told so pitiable a story however that he was allowed to depart on taking back his goods, paying back the money and fifty cents to the officer who arrested him. He then left town for Lock Haven.

—Miss Mary Murray, a lady 60 years of age, was found dead in bed at her home near Waddle's Station, last Tuesday morning. She and her sister Kate had been living together for years in the old home stead. She had been complaining of not feeling well for some time but nothing serious was expected. It is thought that her death was caused by heart trouble.

DEATH AND BURIAL OF BARTRAM GALBRAITH.

In last week's REPUBLICAN we announced the death of Bartram Galbrath who has been court crier for Centre county for 34 years. He died on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock after a short illness. He had been able to attend court the week before at the special term and performed his usual duties but he caught cold and was confined to the house. The case was not a bad one or would not have been to a younger man but Mr. Galbraith had lived three score and twenty-two years and nature was exhausted and the slight cold that a young person would have hardly noticed, to this man of years whose sands of life had so nearly run out, it proved a fatal sickness. His physician and friends did all that skill and loving care could suggest but without avail, the angel of death was there and he would not depart. His end was peaceful, his death painless.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Galbraith who emigrated from Ireland in an early day and located at Boalsburg, this county. There Bartram was born on May 30, 1810. In early life he worked on a farm, but later he came to Bellefonte and apprenticed himself to James Armour to learn the cabinetmaker's trade. Afterwards he worked for Samuel Harris finally he turned to pattern making for Todd and Duncan, machinists. He was a skillful workman and was considered by his employers as the very best. He also at one time worked for Isaac Haupt at pattern making.

In the year 1860 Judge Linn, then President Judge, appointed him court crier and janitor which position he held to the time of his death to the satisfaction of everybody. Having been a resident of this county all his life and connected with the courts for so many years he was widely known and being a man of kind and pleasant manners he was respected and loved by everybody. His wife died in May, 1891, at the advanced age of 78 years. He leaves two sons and one daughter.

The funeral was on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house on Howard street. There was a large attendance, many of our oldest citizens were there, the Bellefonte Bar was there in a body as was also the members of Centre Lodge, No. 153, I. O. O. F., of which organization he had been a member for a great many years. The body reposed in a beautiful casket in the front room; the members of the Lodge, bar and citizens passed through to take a last look on the face of the dead. Rev. William Laurie, D. D., of the Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Ed. Everett Hoshour, of the Lutheran church, officiated. After service at the house the casket was carried by members of Centre Lodge to the place of burial. There were twelve pall bearers, viz., A. Sternburg, H. Y. Stitzer, Cyrus Weaver, Adam Hazel, John Shreffler, C. T. Gerberich, Isaac Miller, Wm Miller, H. B. Pontius, W. I. Fleming W. B. Rankin and D. F. Fortney, all members of the Odd Fellows Lodge. In the procession the members of the court took the lead followed by the I. O. O. F. Lodge and citizens. At the grave there was a short service, Rev. Laurie repeated portions of scripture appropriate to burial service. W. I. Fleming, of Centre Lodge, then performed the burial service of the order assisted by Rev. Noll, of the Reformed church. The members then passed by the open grave and dropped a sprig of evergreen on to the coffin. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive. Thus was the last sad rites performed over the grave of one of Bellefonte's oldest and most respected citizens.

DEATH OF MRS. MARTHA A. LANE.

Last Friday morning, Dec. 2, the friends and neighbors of Mrs. Martha Armor Jenkins Lane, who lived on East Linn street, Bellefonte, were surprised to learn of her sudden serious illness. Hardly a week before she had returned from a visit to Lancaster and Philadelphia in her usual health where she had spent much time in making many purchases. At one time on her visit she spent a whole day at Wanamakers shopping with her daughter Mrs. James Lane. She was making many plans for a pleasant Christmas time, many plans to add to the happiness of others; beautiful and costly presents she was intending to purchase for her children and grand children.

For years she has been subject to spells of heart trouble. On Thursday night she had one of these attacks but it was not thought to be serious although the doctor was called at two o'clock in the morning. About eight o'clock she expressed a doubt about getting well but said that if she was to die she was prepared; she said she loved all the family and would like to stay and enjoy their society but if that could not be she was satisfied. It was still thought, however, that she would recover but at fifteen minutes past the hour of noon she breathed her last and on her face rested a smile of contentment and peace.

She was the widow of James B. Lane, of Lancaster, who died thirty years ago. She removed from that city to Bellefonte with her family in 1871. She has been the mother of nine children only three of whom are now living, viz., John N., of Bellefonte; James B., of Philadelphia, and Elliot E., of Camden, N. J. She belonged to a noble lineage, being a descendent of Robert Emmet, the famous Irish patriot and a niece of Ex-President Buchanan. Her maiden name was Martha Armor Jenkins; she was a faithful member of the Episcopal church and was sustained by this faith in her dying hour. The funeral was at her late residence on East Linn street last Monday morning at half past nine o'clock, Rev. Benton, of the Episcopal church, officiating. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive, a large number of friends and relatives were present. The pall bearers were John I. Potter, Dr. George F. Harris, Harry Fenlon, Joseph Montgomery, Charles Richards and Geo. W. Jackson.

After the services at the house the remains were taken to the train to be conveyed to Lancaster where upon arrival they were placed in the Episcopal chapel in accordance with the request of the deceased to remain over night, the same little chapel from which her beloved husband was borne thirty years before. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. She was laid beside her husband.

PERSONAL PENCILINGS

Mr. Bruce R. Gates, of Tyrone, spent last Sunday in Bellefonte.

Miss Leona Maitland, of Bellefonte, has been visiting her brother Isaac at Williamsport.

We are glad to notice that Edward K Rhoads, who has been confined to the house for several weeks past, is again out and attending to his business.

C. G. McMillen, former of the Brockerhoff House, Bellefonte, but now of Dayton, Ohio, was in town this week. Although he is looking well he is some what changed so that many persons did not know him. He was not slow in making him self known, however.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bollinger, formerly Miss Long of Millheim, who has been living in South Dakota for the last eleven years, is visiting friends in Centre and Blair counties. She is making her headquarters with her mother, Mrs. Long, who is now in her 85th year.

Mrs. M. O. Sheets, who lives on Bishop street, Bellefonte, is said to be quite ill with paralysis of one side. It is said that when at school at State College several years ago she lost the misfortune to fall injure her spine, since which time she has to be very careful or this paralysis comes upon her. Last monday she had one of these attacks and is said to be very ill although her friends hope for the best.

Newton S. Baily, who has been managing editor of the Gazette for the last two years, had resigned his position on that paper to accept a position on the Williamsport Times, a new paper to be started in that city. Mr. Baily is a newspaper man of years of experience. He was on the staff of this paper for many years and we always, found him to be faithful and honest. He is a prudent writer, and will no doubt in his new position gives satisfaction to his employers. The position he holds on the new paper is that of city editor.

—Mrs. Margaret Decker, aged 88 years, 7 months and 29 days, died at her residence in Walker township, near Hublersburg, on November 29. Her maiden name was Margaret Bechtol. She was born in Berks county. She was married to Adam Decker 67 years ago. She has been a widow for the last fourteen years. She has had eleven children, nine of whom are still living. She occupied the house in which she died for 64 successive years, being one of the first settlers in that valley. She was buried in the Reformed cemetery at Hublersburg, beside her husband. The The funeral took place Thursday, Dec. 1, at 10 o'clock, Rev. F. W. Brown, of the Reformed church, officiating. The names of her living children are as follows: John Adam and William, living near Hublersburg; Samuel, at Zion; Henry, in Holton, Kansas; George, in Versailles, Missouri; Mary, wife of Thos. Schantz, in Circleville Kansas; Kate, wife of Jacob Gephart, in Millheim; Sarah, wife of Samuel Sterm, in Loganton, Clinton county; she had fifty grandchildren and thirty great grandchildren.

—Probably everyone or most everyone in Bellefonte knew Charles Nau and wife. For years they lived here keeping a restaurant, taking in washing and "sich." From here they went to Tyrone and for a while they run a restaurant there, just across the bridge from the depot, and appeared to be doing a fair business. Then they got to have charge of the Tyrone hotel and here too it was thought they were doing well, but now they are gone, so it is said, and no one knows where and many would like to know. So it is with some people in this world, now you see them, and now you don't.

—Rev Lambert, the new pastor of the United Brethren church, corner of High and Thomas street, Bellefonte, is holding a series of revival meetings in the church and meeting with good success. Meetings will be held every evening this week. Mr. Lambert is an earnest christian and is much liked by his congregation.

IN ITS TRUE LIGHT.

The Gazeile thinks as do many others and perhaps all others in this town that an arc light should be placed at the rail road depot. It is said that the town council thinks the railroad company should place it there which is perhaps about right, also, but what has this to do with the question. That paper says;

So far as railroad convenience are concerned Bellefonte has none, and the citizens will get none if they neglect to push their claim.

In one year thousands of dollars are exhorbitantly taken from the pockets of the Bellefonte citizens in the way of freight and notwithstanding this fact the railroad company refuses to do absolutely anything that will benefit them in the least.

We cannot say that this is exactly true. The Pennsylvania railroad system is the best the world ever saw. This town has as good accomodations as any other town of equal size. All the trains are run in here that we need; we have a depot that fills all the requirement that could be reasonably asked, and as to heavy charges in freight, this company does no more in this direction than these grumblers would do if they stood in the place of the company. The railroad company is doing business to make money and that is the universal law which everyone follows in the present race to accumulate gain. We believe the company should put a light at the depot and we do not doubt but that they will if their attention is called to it in a proper manner. But to say that they are criminally reckless of human life when they employ a man at that point all the time to watch the track warn all comers against danger and that they do nothing for Bellefonte when they have a depot and all accomodations that we need even to a flower bed to beautify the grounds, we say that to put it mild, that it is a reckless abuse of language. But let us have a light and make it bright as day so that we can easily recognize our friends when they come on the train.

PRESBYTERIAN FAIR

The fair and festival held by the ladies of the Presbyterian church in the chapel last Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings was a grand success. As we stated last week the proceeds of this entertainment is to go to swell the organ fund, the amount raised by the ladies at this time is to have been about four hundred and fifty dollars. The ladies of this society deserve great credit for their effort to secure a fine organ for their church. They have worked for this object for years and have piled up the money dollar by dollar and now they are about to see their efforts crowned with success, and one of the finest and most powerful organs in the county will be in the church by Christmas time, on which to chant the Christmas anthems. All honor is due to the ladies for their untiring effort to make their church a beautiful temple dedicated to the worship of the only true God, for it is very doubtful if the church would have been repaired had not the ladies worked so hard for the organ. When it was seen that they were about to accomplish their purpose in raising money to secure so beautiful an instrument the men were spurred to repair the church to make it worthy to receive so beautiful a piece of furniture. It is said they will have an organ concert sometime about the 12th of January. This was to have been the night before Christmas, mentioned of which had been made in this paper, but as it will take about ten days to tune the instrument after it is set up a change of date is necessary and a positve date cannot be given now as it will have to be made to suit the convenience of musicians coming from a distance, but when it is given it will be a grand affair at which everyone in the county that can should be present.

BOROUGH COUNCIL.

The first regular meeting of December was held last Monday evening.

Geo. T. Bush presented a petition signed by a large number of citizens asking that the fire alarm on the Electric light works be sounded every time there is a fire within the borough limits.

On motion of Mr. Al. Garman council assumes all responsibility for damage likely to occur from the effect of sounding the alarm.

Street committee were requested to enforce the order requiring property owners to keep their pavements clear from ice and snow.

J. S. Waite & Co. were granted permission to place a fire plug on their premises on Water street at their own expense; their request for change of grade before same property was referred to street committee.

On motion of Mr. Longacre an additional incandescent electric light was ordered to be placed on East Howard street. The bills were then examined and approved, after which adjournment.
